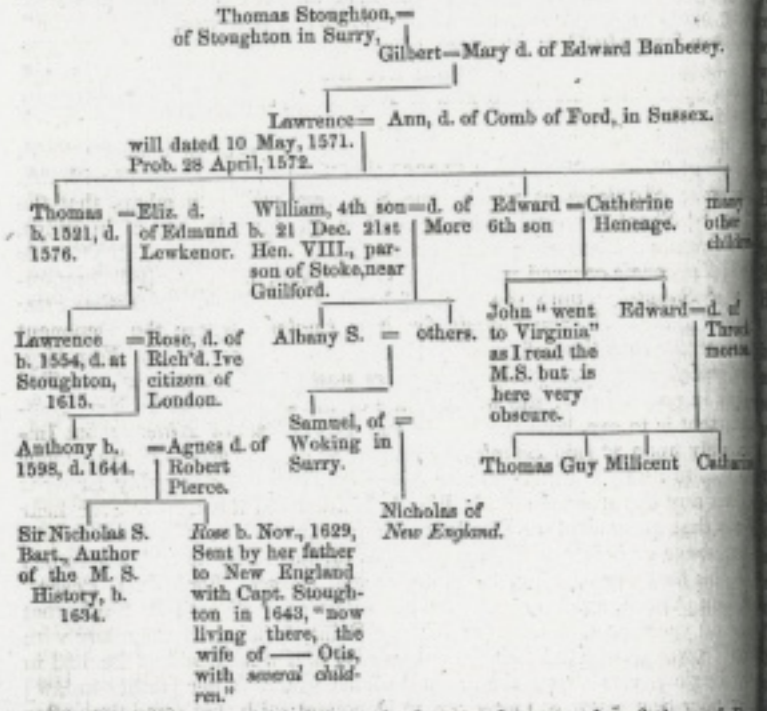
FAMILY OF STOUGHTON.*

Having been favored with the following pedigree of Stoughton, throug the politeness of the Hon. James Savage, LL.D., we judge it worth to accompany the present Memoir. Mr. Savage informs us, that for he is indebted to the Rev. Joseph Hunter, of Her Majesty's Re Office, London, who extracted it from the MSS. in the British Muse entitled, "Additional," No. 6174. The subject is a History of the fam of Stoughton, and an Autobiography of one member of it, namely, Sir Nicholas Stoughton, Bart., who was the writer of the note. He was born in 1634, and the latest date in the MS. is 1672.



Sir Nicholas says of his father Anthony, who was also father of R Otis, that he was a "Puritan, and very strict liver." He was an Engi in the Parliamentary army, and d. 14 Dec. 1644."

Israel Stoughton, of Dorchester, who had gone home "about mercha dize," "and returned with good advantage," "went again in the winter 1644–5" [compare Winthrop II. 220 and 245] so that the father of Sir Nicholas; approaching his end, for he died 14 January, 1643–4, might well have desired to entrust his dau. Rose (then 14 years old) to a kin man of so high a character as Capt. Israel, to bring to New England o of the perils of the civil war raging in 1643. H. N. O.

* This pedigree of a branch of the Stoughton Family, has been obtained by H. N. Otis, as he explains above, to show the connection between the Otis a Stoughton Families. Reference is made to it, Vol. ii, 162. It does not appear the name Rose came into this branch of the Stoughton family, from the fact sugge in note (a) p. 179, of this volume.—Editor.

MEMOIR OF THE STEBBINS FAMILY.

The armorial ensigns of the Stebbins family were: — Argent, a Griffin, egreant azure langued and membered gules, between three cross crosslets. A coat of arms in the Northampton family of Stebbins is expressed in these words: — "He beareth Argent a Griffin rampant with wings displayed between three cross crosslets azure, by the name of Stebbings."

The surname Stebbing, probably originated in the county of Essex, England, where, in the hundred of Hincford, there is a town or parish of Stebbing.* In this county is found the earliest mention of the name yet discovered, John de Stubing, of Essex, being recorded in the Chancery Rolls or Records, 3 John, 1201, as having been fined one mare as herisage or compensation fee for the non performance of military duty. He was probably a crown vassal. Thomas Stebing is mentioned (3 Edw. I., 1275,) as possessing a house in Bernwell, a suburb of Canterbury, (co. Kent) which he had inherited from his father, Walter Stebing. Contemporary with the latter lived Richard de Stebing, who resided near Dernmore magna, Essex county. John de Stebbing held lands in the hundred of Dengerford (Hinceford) Essex, temp. Edw. II., (Testa de Nevill,) and a John de Stebing, probably the same person, a man of arms, was returned by the Sheriff of Essex, pursuant to a writ tested at Westminster, 9th May, 17 Edw. II., (1324) as summoned to attend the great Council, &c. He was the son of Nicholas de Stybbynge.

The name is variously written in old records; for instance — Stebbing, Stebbing, Stibbinge, Stubing, Stubbing, &c. Sometimes, as will be noticed, it has the feudal de prefixed. That the name Stubbing has a common origin with Stebbing, we may infer from the similarity of the arms of the two families.

There were several persons by this name among the early emigrants to New England, but it is probable that none of them, except Rowland Stebbing, have descendants now living who bear their name. We find an Edmund Stebbins, of Cambridge, in 1634, who removed to Connecticut, as early as 1636.† He was probably the Dea. Edmund Stebbins, whose name appears on the monument erected in the South Church burial ground in Hartford, by the authorities of that city, in memory of its founders. There was a John Stebbins, of Watertown, who had a son John, born 1634† John, of Roxbury, freeman, 1647, d. Dec. 4, 1681, aged 70. His wife died in 1686.† There was also a John at New London, Ct., 1651, whose name is spelled Stebben, Stebbin, Stubbins, and Stebbynges. Martin Stebbins was of Roxbury, 1640,‡ and Farmer mentions also an Increase, of Springfield, 1650.

Rowland Stebbing[1], first settled at Roxbury, but afterwards removed to Springfield. Here his wife, Sarah, died, 4 Oct. 1649. The families of Stebbing and Pynchon were conected, at least by friendship, before leaving England, and for this reason, probably, Rowland Stebbing chose to go to Springfield, in preference to going with the Connecticut colony. The friendship between Stebbing and Pynchon continued through life. The ancient gentility of these families was duly recognized as having been derived from the most ancient and celebrated houses of England. A glance at the names of the principal settlers of New England, should satisfy the most prejudiced Virginian that there are many eastern families, that have as good a claim to "gentle blood," as any boastful Lee, Randolph, or Fairfax. As to the Stebbing family, few of England's haughtiest nobles can trace their lineage to a period so remote as they; and in this country, with the exception of the descendants of the few Jamestown settlers, and the pilgrims of the Mayflower, none can boast an older descent.

Rowland Stebbing and his son John removed from Springfield to Northampton. Thomas, the eldest son, remaining at S. Rowland d. at Northampton, 14 Dec. 1671, aged 77. About the year 1806, I had the earliest burial ground in Northampton examined, to discover the precise spot where the remains of Rowland Stebbing were deposited, but failing in the attempt, in 1840, I caused a granite cenotaph to be erected to his memory in the centre of my family square in the New Yard. But, very unexpectedly, his grave has been discovered. The grave was opened September, 18[illegible], the remains having been in it 179 years. It is intended to place a marble slab at the head of the grave with a suitable inscription.

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL REGISTER.

VOL. X. JANUARY, 1856. NO. 1.

A PAPER READ BEFORE THE NEW ENGLAND HISTORIC-GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY,

At its Meeting on the 1st of August, 1855.

[By the Rev. William Jenks, D. D.]

We are citizens of a country, on whose institutions civilized nations have looked with growing interest. The advance which has been made among us, in the establishment of free institutions, while it has excited the jealousy of some, has animated the efforts of others, and encouraged their hopes. We take rank, as a nation, with the old empires and kingdoms of the world, on terms of reciprocal benefit. But not one century has closed since the recognition of our nationality, and not more than three centuries since our extended shores were visited by Europeans.

Every tongue recapitulates these facts. We are permitted to enjoy the result of them. But such are the facts, and such the results, that it needs not the spirit of an overweening fanaticism, or self-applauding superstition, to ascribe to their causes a higher origin than mere hazard, or the express designs and continuous counsels of men. The hand of God, in His providences, has often been recognized by our pious countrymen, at various periods of their history, and devoutly believed to be concerned in producing the events whence our prosperity has come.

We rank, as a nation, with old empires and kingdoms, I have said. But we are not like them. We have been recognized more than half a century, since our Revolution; and in that period have seen a bloody struggle of an oppressed people to shake off its government—which it did, and proved itself unable to ordain a substitute; at least, such a substitute as the necessities of the people seemed to demand: and we have seen them, after years of anarchy, and its too sure follower, military despotism, relapsing again and again into monarchy. France, has, however, gained much, notwithstanding this relapse.

But we have also seen the colonies of another nation, which, from the very discovery of this continent, occupied the highest eminence of power for nearly two centuries, failing to obtain the advantages of revolution, and becoming a mutual prey to contention, jealousy, the competition of ambitious chieftains, and the incapacity of political leaders.

No horrors like those of France, no miseries like those of the Spanish Colonies of South America, marked our revolution. It was conducted by men of a different character. It concerned a people of different descent,

In the first Will, Sarah is to receive £50, in the second, but £40. James Bill, of Pulling Point, (so written on the files,) is called James Bell and James Hill, on the record. See abstract of the Will and Inventory, in Reg. for 1855, p. 230.]

THE SANBORN FAMILY.

[By Nathan Sanborn, M. D., Hennîker, N. H.]

The first lineal ancestor of our family, of whom we possess any certain knowledge, was a Sanborn, (tradition says his name was John,) who married a daughter of Rev. Stephen Bachilor; had three sons and died in England, leaving the widow and her sons to the care of her father. Mr. Bachilor was born in England about 1561; took episcopal orders, but was ejected for non-conformity and retired with others to Holland, and then to America. He came over in ship William and Francis, Capt. Thomas, and landed at Boston, June 5, 1632, and went directly to Lynn, where his daughter, Theodate, who married Christopher Hussey, had already settled. Here they remained four or five years, while the old gentleman, over 70 years of age, discharged the duties of pastor over a church he had constituted, without regular installation, composed of the company he brought with him, and such of the former inhabitants of the place as chose to associate with them. On account of difficulties in the church, owing in part, at least, to Mr. Bachilor's eccentric management, his residence here became unpleasant, and taking his company with him, now increased by the addition of Mr. Hussey's family, and perhaps some others, he removed to Ipswich, then to Newbury, and in 1638 settled in Hampton, where he was regularly installed first pastor of the congregational church in that place. Here John and William Sanborn lived and died. In Hampton, then including Northampton, Hampton Falls, Southampton, Seabrook and Kensington, and in Stratham, Exeter and Newmarket lived their descendants for near a century, contributing their full proportion to the bone and muscle as well as the intelligence and enterprise of the community.

At the close of the first century after their immigration, few of the race had passed the limits of Old Hampton as then bounded; and to the copious and well preserved records of that town and its church, we are indebted, chiefly, for the reliable account we are able to give of four or five of the first generations.

In regard to the orthography of the name, there seems considerable discrepancy of opinion. A very large majority of our name in America write it Sanborn, but all reports I have obtained from the old world agree in spelling it Samborne or Sambourne. Dr. Thomas Sanborn, of Newport, N. H., who visited Europe in 1853, says, "The conclusion arrived at is that the name of Sanborn is not to be found in the British Isles, but the name of Samborne is to be found in Bristol and London. Their home seems to be in Montford [?] Co., Berks, Hampshire and Somersetshire." In Derbyshire, where our old family tradition locates them, there are none

LETTER FROM REV. SUPPLY CLAP OF WOBURN, MASS., TO REV. NATHL. CLAP OF NEWPORT, R. I.

Wob: Decr 25th 1742.

Revd: Father,

I received a Little bottle from you, the contents of wch I took; which (by ye Divine blessing) I hope was serviceable to me. I thank you for it. I have been (according to ye Good will of a holy God) bro't to ye Gates of ye Grave, wn I tho't I should be deprived of ye residue of my years. But when near departing, as myself and others apprehended, God was ready to save, Jehovah-jireh, God appeared in ye mount of Difficulty and I am returned to see ye Lord in ye Land of ye Living and to behold man again. I am still a poor weak Creature, as I have often heard you say of yourself. I have many painfull Days and restless nights. I hope God intends all for my Good and yt I shall Learn humility, Patience, resignation to Gods will &c: in this School of affliction. I make no doubt I have had your prayers for me, I ask them still. My family is in good health, by Gods Goodness. My wife sends her Duty to you. We have two Children, Martha and Supply, pray God to bless them and make ym blessings. My Love and Service to Mr Gardner. Now wishing Grace mercy and peace may be multiplied to you and ye flock to whom you have so long been made a blessing, and asking yr prayers for a blessing on me and my flock, I subscribe myself, ye Dutifull tho' unworthy Son, in ye Ministry.

Supply Clap.

P. S. I heard from Dorchester, not long since. Our friends and Relations wre in good health generally. There is a Little number yt hold a Separate meeting yet on Lords Days. It is remarkable, That yre hath not been one Exhorter among my people yet, we are in peace, (God grant it may not be a peace and Security in Sinning.)

I beg ye outpouring of Gods Spirit on my people and upon ye Land, and that God would preserve his people from Errors, which I fear are many at this Day. I trust we must still, To ye Law and to ye Testimonies, Stick to ye Bible and make Gods word our Rule. Please to write to me by ye first opportunity, That I may hear (I hope) of yr welfare and receive your blessing in ye Lord.

Mrs. Hews or Lyme, N. H.—There is in Lyme, N. H., a very fine and well arranged cemetery; and though it is thickly studded with monuments to the dead, yet the town must be generally healthy, and favorable to longevity, for the inscriptions to aged people are quite numerous. Here is interred the oldest person who has ever lived in the town. This was

"Sarah wife of Lieut | Nathaniel Hews, died | March 26, 1851, aged | 101 yrs. 4 mo. 10 days."

She came here with her husband, about 1767, from Mansfield in Connecticut. Her mother lies near her, with a stone showing that she was buried in 1815, at the age of 95 years.

MARRIAGES BY SAMUEL MOTT, JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, OF PRESTON, CONN.

Communicated by FRANK PALMER, Esq., of Norwich, Conn.

SAMUEL MOTT, from whose private papers the following list is copied, was the son of Samuel Mott, of Charlestown, R. I., who settled in Preston, Conn., in 1747. He was a Colonel, from Preston, Conn., in the Revolutionary War, and afterwards became a General in the Connecticut militia. It is upon the eminence which formed the site of his mansion that the Soldiers' Monument and the Preston Public Library have been recently erected — gifts of Charles H. Brown, Esq., and Hon. Lucius Brown, to their native town.

Immediately preceding and following the marriage records here given, several pages have been cut from the book, and the tradition is that they contained further records which were sent to Washington, D. C., in the establishing of pension claims. General Mott died in Preston, 16 May, 1813, aged 78 years.

existence but three others have been elected so young. At the session in 1845, he was president pro tem. of the Senate and chairman of the judiciary committee. In 1852, when the Supreme Court was composed of three members only, he was strongly supported for a judgeship. At the election in 1857, in the general assembly composed of two hundred and seventy members, he was elected by thirty-eight majority over two other candidates, Mr. Merrill, and Mr. T. P. Redfield, who later became an honored member of the court. At the elections in 1854 and 1855, he was chosen by the people State's Attorney for Windsor County.

He was president of the Dartmouth Alumni Association, succeeding Chief Justice Chase, of the Vermont Bar association, of the Phi Beta Kappa of Dartmouth, and vice-president of the Vermont Historical Society. He became a member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society in 1889, was immediately elected its vice-president for Vermont, and held that office until the time of his death.

He read before the Vermont Historical Society biographical sketches of Jacob Collamer and Charles Marsh, delivered orations at Dartmouth, Norwich University, and Middlebury College, and gave many other addresses and orations during the sixty years of his active life. In his professional and judicial life he did more service than almost any other man in the state; was engaged as counsel before judges who were elected as early as 1822, and before most of those elected after that until his judicial life began in 1857. He was well known throughout the commonwealth, and was everywhere esteemed for his knowledge of the law, his acute but stubborn intellect, and upright character. For sixty years he was a prominent figure in the courts of this state. In the trial of causes at nisi prius, his manner was curt yet comprehensive; by some he was regarded as imperious and commanding, but this arose from the fact that he had no patience with an unlearned attorney, and his criticisms, being uttered in plain, forcible, and expressive language, gave him a dictatorial air not at all relished by the victim smarting under the lash. His rulings in such trials were made with greater reference to what he thought the law ought to be, than to what it had actually been declared to be in the reports. While he paid due deference to his associates, his language concerning them would sometimes bring a smile to the faces of the bar. He had presided at a trial in which his rulings were reversed by the supreme court. Upon the second trial, the counsel read from the opinion of the court criticising the rulings upon the first trial, after which the Judge inquired in his nonchalant manner, "Does any one expect me to be governed by such twaddle as that?" His manner of expression was forcible, and sometimes gave an added zest to the proceedings. A defeated litigant petitioned the supreme court for a new trial upon the ground that he was surprised at the first trial by the perjury of his adversary. The petition was dismissed, the court speaking by Ross, J., simply stated that the petition was not sustained. Whereupon Judge Barrett remarked that Bro. Ross was not feeling well that morning, and was unacquainted with the parties, and could not do the case justice. He wished to add that the court were satisfied that the party did commit perjury, the rankest kind of perjury, that the allegations in the petition in that respect were fully sustained by the most irrefragable proof, but that the petitioner or any one else was surprised by it, or that he ought to expect anything else than perjury, to be believed, must be told to some one not so well acquainted with the parties as he was. Indeed had the petitioner alleged that he was surprised that his adversary did speak the truth, did not commit perjury, his surprise would have been fully justified.

In trials before him, the cases did not drift with the tide, and it is safe to say that the court, not the counsel, had control. One thing is certain, whoever heard him in the court room had no doubt what Judge Barrett thought about any principle of law he was stating. He was one of the strong men in the Supreme Court of Vermont, a worthy colleague of Peck, Poland, Aldis, and Wheeler. His rulings were pointed, clear, and sharp. He was a great scholar, classical as well as legal; one of the most learned and able judges that ever graced the bench of the state court. After he retired from the bench, he removed to Rutland, where his son, James Crocker, a promising member of the profession, was in practice. He died in Rutland, April 21, 1900, as he was nearing the close of his 86th year.

Judge Barrett married, September 23, 1844, Maria Lord Woodworth of South Coventry, Connecticut, who survives him, with four children: Elizabeth Hubbard, wife of Lewis W. Hicks of Hartford, Connecticut; Rush Palmer Barrett of Rutland; John Arnold Barrett of New York; and Rev. Samuel Allen Barrett of Gilbertville, Massachusetts.

SOME EARLY NEW YORK SETTLERS FROM NEW ENGLAND.

By Walter Kendall Watkins, Esq., of Malden, Mass.

Mather's Magnalia states that between thirty and forty families in Lynn, Mass., came over to Long Island and settled. Other Lynn people, who had settled on Cape Cod, came to Long Island later. The following notes include many of these, but do not include them all, as much has already been printed in histories of Southampton, Southold, and Long Island in general.

was confirmed as executrix. 24 June, 1678, Dorothy, widow, and executrix of the will of Edmund Farrington, late of Flushing, having died intestate, and her eldest son, John Farrington, making application, letters of administration were granted him. This would seem to show that Edmund had two sons named John, one by wife Elizabeth who, according to Savage, died in Lynn, 2 May, 1666, and one by Dorothy, which latter may have been the John, a soldier in King Philip's war.

Dorothy, the widow, was the daughter of Thomas Bowne who came to Boston in 1649, and whose son, John Bowne, settled at Flushing, L. I.

Rev. Peter Hobart, bapt. at Hingham, England, 13 Oct., 1604, educated at Magdalen College, Oxford, B.A. 1625, M.A. 1629, came to Charlestown, Mass., in June, 1635. His wife was Rebecca, daughter of Peter Ibrook, and their eldest son Joshua, born in 1628, graduated at Harvard in 1650. Joshua went to Barbadoes in 1655, and the next year visited London. He was ordained at Southold, L. I., 7 Oct., 1674, where he continued nearly 45 years, till his death, 28 Feb., 1716. He married (1) Margaret, daughter of William Vassall, and (2) Mary Rainsford of Boston. His sons were Daniel, Peter and John; a daughter, Irene, married Ebenezer Way, formerly of Hartford, who died at Southold, L. I., 6 June, 1739.

Josiah, a brother of Rev. Joshua Hobart, was a selectman of Hingham, 1662, 1667, 1668, and was at Long Island in 1678. He was captain at East Hampton in 1683, and sheriff 1696, and died there in 1711. A daughter, Margaret, married Nathaniel Sylvester of East Hampton and Shelter Island, and they had: Nathaniel, Brinley and Margaret.

Barnabas Horton, baker, was of Hampton in 1640, and sold land at Ipswich, 12 March, 1641. He was at Southold, 1662, and died in 1681. In his will he mentions, eldest son Joseph, second son Benjamin, eldest daughter Hannah Trevalle, Joseph, son of daughter Sarah Conckling, third daughter Mary Budd, third son Caleb, fourth son Joshua, fifth son Jonathan, youngest daughter Mercy Youngs, and wife Mary executrix. Proved at Southampton, 18 Nov., 1681.

In 1660, a deed from Capt. John Scott to Thomas Hutchinson, late of Lynn, grants land 20 miles west of Southampton, L. I., with privileges claimed by Scott from Wyandank, sachem, and Weacham his son.

Hutchinson resided at Southold, and had: Thomas, Matthias, Samuel and perhaps Benjamin.

John Jenner of Dorchester went to Stratford, Conn. He married Alice, the only child of Robert Pigg of New Haven, who in his will, in 1660, gave his estate to Thomas Jenner, his daughter's son and other children. John Jenners removed to Brookhaven alias Seatalcutt, Long Island, and in his will, dated 7 March, 1674, proved at Southold, 5 June, 1679, leaves to wife Alice the use of house during life. His three sons, Thomas, John and Joseph, to share equally after her death. Legacies to daughters Elizabeth, and Mary wife of William Satterly of Setalcot. His rights he had in the plantation of Stratford he leaves to his wife and son John.

Thomas Josselyn, husbandman, age 43, with wife Rebecca, 43, and children, Rebecca 18, Dorothy 11, Nathaniel 8, Elizabeth 6, Mary 1, came in the "Increase," from London, in 1635, and was among the grantees of Sudbury in 1640. He was at Hingham in 1637, and a selectman in 1645. He removed to Lancaster, where he signed the civil compact in 1654, and 8 Jan., 1661, was aged 69. His widow married (2) William Kerley. His will names sons Abraham and Nathaniel, and daughters, Rebecca wife of Thomas Nichols, Mary wife of Roger Sumner, and Elizabeth wife of Edward Yeamans.

Abraham Josselyn had baptized at Hingham, 8 April, 1649, Abraham; 15 Dec., 1650, Philip, who died in Boston 2 Aug., 1652. In Boston, Nathaniel was born, 4 July, 1660; and in Lancaster, Joseph, 26 July, 1663; and Mary, 14 Dec., 1666. He also had Henry, Rebecca and Thomas. Abraham, the father, died in 1670. His widow, Beatrice, married 16 Nov., 1671, Benjamin Bosworth of Hull, and she died in Boston in Jan., 1712, aged 88.

In regard to Abraham Joslin, the following is found in the Middlesex County, Mass., Court Files:

"And Good wife I would not have you remane where you are with any of my children, but my desire is that my children may be put out to Trades where they are." Leaves to son Henry 20 shillings, "and I desire him to be kind to his brothers, and to take one of them to himselfe to learne his trade, as he hath promised me."

PHILIP GAVET OF SALEM, MASS., AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS

By Joseph Gavit of Albany, N.Y.

The immigrant ancestor in New England of the family which forms the subject of this article was of French origin, and came to this country, towards the middle of the seventeenth century, from the Island of Jersey, one of the Channel Islands, off the northern coast of France. These islands have belonged to England for many centuries, being the only part of the former Duchy of Normandy which remained under the rule of the English kings after the close of the Hundred Years' War. The population of the islands, however, is largely French, from Brittany, Artois, and other ancient provinces of northern France. There is a tradition that in the old church of St. Saviour, in Jersey, there are records of this family that date back into the twelfth century. There are Gavets in France to-day, and writings by members of the family are listed in the catalogue of the Bibliothèque Nationale. In J. B. Rietstap's "Armorial Général," second edition, Gouda, 1884, vol. 1, page 750, is the following description of a Gavet coat of arms:

"Gavet ou Gawet — Angl., Art., *Bret. D'arg. à une tour de gu., surm. d'une rose du même, et accostée de deux rats de sa., posés debout, les queues se croisant au-dessous de la tour."

The spelling of the surname has varied at different times and in different branches of the family. Philip, the immigrant ancestor in New England, and his descendants at Salem generally used the form Gavet or Gavett, but the compiler of this genealogy spells the name Gavit, although of the same Salem line. Ezekiel, the progenitor of the Westerly (R. I.) branch of the family, signed his will as Gavit, but in deeds to him from Oliver Ring and Charles Ninegret the surname is spelled Gavett. Gasett and Gavitt have been used by the Westerly descendants, and another form of the name is Gavitte. Various immigrants of the name have arrived in America since the coming of the ancestor of the Salem family, and one branch of these immigrants has changed the spelling to Gavey, to retain the French pronunciation.

According to the family Bible of Joseph[3] Gavet (vide infra, 4), as quoted by the late William Fobes Gavet (55) of Salem, his descendant, in whose possession the Bible was at that time, the immigrant ancestor of the Salem family was Philippe Gavet, who was born in the Island of Jersey 2 May 1631, arrived in Massachusetts in 1647, and married at the age of twenty-four, that is, about 1655. But the four children mentioned in this Bible were the children of Philip Gavett and Hannah Macchone, who were married at Marblehead, Mass., 6 Sept. 1681. This may be a second marriage of the immigrant of 1647; but, when it is considered that Joseph, the youngest child of this marriage, was born 22 Dec. 1699, that the mother, Hannah, was born 31 Oct. 1659 and died 1 Dec. 1713, and that after her death her husband, Philip, removed to Westerly, R. I., and built a house, being then, if he was the immigrant of 1647, about eighty-three years old, it seems likely that the Philip who married Hannah Macchone was not the immigrant of 1647, but may have been his son. In that case, perhaps Katherine Gavet, who was married at Newbury, Mass., 5 or 8 Apr. 1677, to Job Pilsbury,* and John Gavitt, who married Sarah ——— and whose daughter was born at Newport, R. I., 14 Sept. 1699, were also children of the first "Philippe." Joseph's family Bible gives no particulars regarding his parents, as such.

The following genealogy begins with the Philip Gavet who married Hannah Macchone, and leaves unsettled the question whether he was identical with the immigrant of 1647.

1. Philip[1] Gavet, of Marblehead and Salem, Mass., died in Rhode Island not earlier than 1714. He married at Marblehead, 6 Sept. 1681, Hannah Macchone, born at Cambridge, Mass. (where she is recorded as Hannah Macoone), 31 Oct. 1659 and baptized in the First Church there 19 July 1663, died at Salem 1 Dec. 1713, daughter of John and Deborah (Bush) Macoone.

Hannah Gavet, wife of Philip, being "a child of the Church at Cambridge," was propounded and admitted to the First Church of Salem 21 June 1696, and was admitted to full communion 6 Nov. 1698. Her six children were baptized in that church 21 June 1696.

There was in existence, a few years ago, a translation by Philip Gavet of Charles Drelincourt's "Consolations de l'âme fidèle contre les frayeurs de la mort," from an edition published in Paris in 1669. William Bentley (cf. his Diary, vol. 3, pp. 332–333) saw this translation in Dec. 1807, in the hands of William[4] Gavet (28), in Salem. "The handwriting," writes Bentley, "is uncommonly clear & almost easy to read as print. The lines are at proper distance & the titles & margins & notes of the pages are preserved as in the printed copy." This relic, undoubtedly the work of Philip Gavet the immigrant, was, when last heard of, in the possession of Louis Fobes[7] Gavet of Salem, son of the late William Fobes[6] Gavet (55), who had also a carpenter's plane stamped "P. G."

The following letter from Philip Gavet to his son Ezekiel of Westerly, R. I., was copied from the original manuscript, which in 1909 was temporarily in the hands of the compiler of this article. The handwriting, like that of the translation of Drelincourt's "Consolations," is "uncommonly clear," and somewhat too steady for a man in his eighties.

"written the 7th of December 1713

*The vital records of Norwich give the name of this man as Timothy L. P. Hosselkus; but his wife signs letters as Caroline L. Parmelee, and states that she was married, on the date given, to Timothy L. Parmelee. In the records of the Congregational Church of Chatham, Conn., p. 111, appears the following: "married by Rev. Joel West Jan. 26 1817 at East Hampton, Ct., John P. Hauselkuse and Dencey Parmelee (dau. of Timothy and Hannah)." Evidently Timothy L. P. Hauselkuse was a son of this marriage, and dropped his father's name as unattractive, retaining as his surname his mother's maiden name. The name Hauselkuse is probably a Hessian name, borne by one of the Hessian mercenaries employed by the British in the Revolution.

HISTORICAL INTELLIGENCE

DR. THOMAS STARR, SURGEON IN THE PEQUOT WAR.—The Editors of the REGISTER announce with great regret that, owing to the recent illness of Mr. Hosea Starr Ballou, from which he is now happily recovering, it is necessary to postpone to a future issue of the magazine a continuation of Mr. Ballou's article on Dr. Thomas Starr.

HERALDRY.—The Committee on Heraldry of the New England Historic Genealogical Society has in its files much information bearing on arms claimed by American families for which no applications for registration have been received. In some cases the right seems to be clear, in many others it would apparently take only a little further evidence to establish the right. With the purpose of stimulating interest in arms borne legitimately the Committee publishes the following list of names, hoping that those interested will make application for their registration and, where necessary, supply the missing link in the chain of evidence.

VACANCIES IN THE MASSACHUSETTS SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI.—The Society of the Cincinnati was organized by the Commissioned Officers of the Continental Army at the time of its disbanding in the spring of 1783, and was divided into State Societies, one in each of the thirteen original states. Every original member contributed one month's pay of his rank to establish a fund the income of which was to be used in perpetuating the friendships formed during the American Revolution and in giving assistance to the needy descendants of members.

The Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati has a membership of about 150, ranking among the largest and richest of the State Societies. But it ought to be larger, and it is always on the lookout for new members, only one of whom can represent a revolutionary ancestor at any given time. To be eligible an applicant must be a male over twenty-one years old, and of the blood of the Revolutionary Officer whom he seeks to succeed. In general the Society follows the English rules of primogeniture, but where a vacancy has existed for many years any qualified applicant may be admitted. Where an applicant is elected in succession to an original member he pays no dues, all his expenses being covered by the contribution of his ancestor. Descendants of commissioned officers who never became original members of the Society, though qualified, may be admitted upon terms.

There follows a list of original members of the Massachusetts Society who have never had successors. The Society will be glad to receive applications from any of their qualified descendants and all inquiries should be addressed to Henry V. Greenough, Esq., Secretary, Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati, 211 Congress Street, Boston, Mass. He will also answer inquiries from descendants of other officers of the Continental Army or Navy as to their eligibility.

GENEALOGIES IN PREPARATION.—Persons of the several names are advised to furnish the compilers of these genealogies with records of their own families and other information which they think may be useful. We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service under the United States Government, the holding of other offices, graduation from college or professional schools, and occupation, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence, and death. All names should be given in full if possible. No initials should be used when the full name is known.

Some four thousand of the transcripts listed are to be found in the Library of the Society, about five hundred acquired since the 1937 list was issued.

These two volumes, recommended to all genealogical libraries, are of the greatest help to the genealogist working on the English origin of an American immigrant, after obviating the necessity of applying to the Rector of the Parish, an application too often for one reason or another resulting in disappointment.

Hartford, Conn. ARTHUR ADAMS

JACOB HURD AND HIS SONS NATHANIEL AND BENJAMIN, SILVERSMITHS, 1702–1781.—New England heraldry of the second half of the Colonial period is well illustrated in this book written by Hollis French and published in November 1939 by The Walpole Society. Mr. French furnishes a list of all the known silverware made by these three craftsmen, much of it armorial, as well as a list of the book-plates by Nathaniel Hurd, the most celebrated of the three, which is by a significant number larger than Allen's list of 1894, since which time many have come to light. An astonishing amount of biographical material concerning the owners of the silver and the book-plates has been brought together, and twenty-three engraved coats of arms are shown in half-tone illustrations. Of great interest is the curious double grant from the College of Arms of arms and crests to William Foster and John Hurd, both of Boston, in 1783, five months before the peace of Paris; the wording of this grant is given in full.

HAROLD BOWDITCH

HEYWARD.—There is evidence that the descendants of Thomas Heyward of the parish of St. Andrew, Berkley Co., S. C., were entitled to use a coat of arms. Correspondence is invited by the Secretary of the Committee on Heraldry.

FARLEY.—A communication from England shows that the descendants of John Farley of Antigua were entitled to a coat of arms. As his grandson, James Park Farley, who died in Virginia in 1777, left descendants, the coat falls within the province of the Committee on Heraldry. The Secretary of the Committee invites correspondence.

HISTORICAL INTELLIGENCE

VACANCIES IN THE MASSACHUSETTS SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI.—The Society of the Cincinnati was organized by the commissioned officers of the Continental Army at the time of its disbanding in the spring of 1783, and was divided into State Societies, one in each of the thirteen original States. Every original member contributed one month's pay of his rank to establish a fund the income of which was to be used in perpetuating the friendships formed during the American Revolution and in giving assistance to the needy descendants of members.

The Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati has a membership of about 150, ranking among the largest and richest of the State Societies. But it ought to be larger, and it is always on the lookout for desirable new members, only one of whom can represent a Revolutionary ancestor at any given time. To be eligible an applicant must be a male over twenty-one years old, and of the blood of the officer of the Continental Army or Navy whom he seeks to succeed. In general the Society follows the English rule of primogeniture, but where a vacancy has existed for many years any qualified applicant may be admitted. Where an applicant is elected in succession to an original member he pays no dues, these being covered by the contribution of his ancestor. Descendants of commissioned officers who never became original members of the Society, though qualified, may be admitted upon terms.

A list of the original members of the Society who have never had a successor follows this introduction.

The Society will be glad to receive applications from any of their qualified descendants and all inquiries should be addressed to Henry V. Greenough, Esq., Secretary, Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati, 211 Congress Street, Boston, Mass. He will also answer inquiries from descendants of other officers of the Continental Army or Navy as to their eligibility.

Greatly interested in the study of genealogy she had compiled "The Ancestors and Descendants of Eli and Simeon Gray" and had contributed often to genealogical sections of Boston and Hartford, Conn., papers.

She is survived by her husband, three sons and four grandchildren.

ALBERT RUFUS WHITTIER, of Milton, Mass., elected a life member 6 April 1926, was born in Hyde Park, Mass., 26 Nov. 1872, son of Albert Rufus and Caroline Amelia (Woodbury) Whittier, and died in Milton 11 Oct. 1945.

Mr. Whittier was descended from Thomas[2] Whittier, born in England in 1620 who came to Massachusetts in the Confidence in 1638, settled at Salisbury and married Ruth Green; through Nathaniel,[3] 1658–1722, who married Mary (Stevens) Osgood; Reuben,[3] 1685–1722, who married Deborah Pillsbury; Nathaniel,[4] 1711–1784, who married Hannah Clough; Nathaniel,[5] 1743–1798, who married Elizabeth Prescott; Thomas,[6] 1775–1836, who married Tamsen Furber; Seth,[7] 1811–1893, who married Harriet Elizabeth Rice; and Albert Rufus,[8] who married Carolina A. Melia Woodbury, his parents.

Mr. Whittier graduated from the Boston Latin School in 1890 and from Harvard College in 1894. Immediately upon graduation from college he became a partner in the family real estate firm of A. R. and C. W. Whittier, and in 1900 became a member of the succeeding firm of C. W. Whittier & Bro., of Boston.

Having made several trips to Europe, the Caribbean and California, Mr. Whittier became interested in collecting first editions of English sporting books, Kipling, also Wedgewood and antique furniture, in fact he was all his life a collector of rare books and works of art. He was also much interested in fishing and hunting and he maintained a fine farm in Canton where he raised blooded Guernsey cattle.

He was a lieutenant in Battery A and served in field artillery in World War I.

He was made a trustee of the Suffolk Savings Bank and in 1937 became a director of the Merchants National Bank of Boston. His clubs included the Union, Country and Harvard Clubs of Boston, Harvard Club of New York, Hoosic-Whisick Club of Canton and the Milton Club.

He was unmarried and is survived by a brother Charles W. Whittier, a life member of the Society, and a sister Miss Isabella Whittier.

The Librarian reported that during the months of May, June, July, August and September there were added to the Library and Cabinet of the Society, by gift, 311 volumes, 417 pamphlets and 270 miscellaneous articles and that among the donations were genealogies of Bailey, Bean, Curtis, Espenchied, Heusinger, Kasper, Lawson-Chester, Leeper, Loomer, Lord, McSweeny-Day, Mershon, Pow, Royer, Sayre, and Thresher.

After these three reports had been accepted the President introduced Mrs. Isabelle Cushman Nason of Scituate, Mass., who gave an interesting and illuminating address on What Patriotic Hereditary Societies Stand For. She reviewed the requirements for membership in the principal organizations, brought out the value and importance of commemorating great historical movements and of cementing the past with the present.

The meeting was declared dissolved at 3.30 P.M. and a social hour was then enjoyed by the members and guests.

6 November 1946. A stated meeting of the Society was held on Wednesday, 6 November, at 2.30 P.M., in Wilder Hall, 9 Ashburton Place, Boston, President Turner presiding.

The minutes of the last stated meeting were read and approved.

The Council reported that since the meeting of 2 October twenty-two Annual Members had been elected and that one person had succeeded to Pilgrim Tercentenary Membership.

The Recording Secretary reported that since the meeting of 2 October notices of the deaths of the following members had been received:

Pilgrim Tercentenary Member

Annual Members

Arthur Hosmer Huse of Brookline, Mass., 2 July 1946.
Allen French of Concord, Mass., 6 October 1946.
Marion S. Kittredge of Everett, Mass., 20 October 1946.

The Librarian reported that during the month of October there were added to the Library and Cabinet of the Society, by gift, 133 volumes, 383 pamphlets and 29 miscellaneous articles and that among the donations were genealogies of Donnelly-Lawrence, Evans, Gaumer, Gold, Heverly, and Nelms.

These three reports were accepted.

The President then announced that he had appointed as members of the Committee on Nominations the following: Richard Spofford Russell, Chairman, William Parker Hart, Edward Adams Kimball, Miss Florence Viaux and Mrs. John Irwin Zerbe.

Colored photographic lantern slides of church steeples from urban and suburban municipalities through New England were shown on the screen at the close of the stated meeting. The specific, intrinsic beauty of each, with the significance of varying architectural features, and some of the historic lore associated with the church edifices, was emphasized by the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Walter E. Corbin of Florence, Mass., whose husband had made the photographs. Mrs. Corbin's talk, New England Steeples, gave a decidedly added charm and interest to the presentation.

At 3.45 P.M. the Chair declared the meeting dissolved and invited the members and their guests to remain for a social hour.

4 December 1946. A stated meeting of the Society was held on Wednesday, 4 December 1946, at 2.30 P.M., in Wilder Hall, 9 Ashburton Place, Boston, the President presiding.

The minutes of the meeting of 6 November were read and approved.

The Librarian reported that during the month of October there were added to the Library and Cabinet of the Society, by gift, 20 volumes, 42 pamphlets and 34 miscellaneous articles and that among the donations were genealogies of Congdon, Hanks, Lowell, Lundy, and Monell.

These three reports were accepted and the President then called for the report of the Committee on Nominations. This was read by the Recording Secretary for the Committee, accepted and ordered on file.

Percy A. Brigham of Arlington, Mass., contributed the entertainment of the afternoon with a showing of his exceptional color films of floral displays in many of New England's private gardens, concluding with a showing of wild flower life in the Canadian Rockies. Educated at Miss Mittelburg's private school in Cleveland and Mrs. Sylvanus Reed's boarding school in New York City, Miss Hale was united in marriage, 22 June 1897, with William Lamson Harkness. Mr. Harkness became a noted oil financier and philanthropist, being one of the largest stockholders in the Standard Oil Company and a great benefactor of Yale University. He gave $400,000 to Yale University before his death and his heirs contributed $500,000 more which led to the erection on the Yale campus of the William L. Harkness lecture and recitation hall, the corner stone of which was laid 8 Jan. 1927. At his death 10 May 1919 the estate of Mr. Harkness was estimated at over $54,000,000.

Two children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harkness, Louise, who is now Mrs. David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, and William Hale, now of New York City.

Mrs. Harkness was the owner of the 602-ton yacht Cythera, which was taken over and used by the government in both World Wars and was lost with all on board in the summer of 1942. She was interested in many philanthropies and was a member of the Colony Club, National Society of Colonial Dames, River Club, Piping Rock Club, Nassau Country Club and New York Yacht Club.

William Hutchinson Cowles, of Spokane, Wash., for nearly a half century publisher of the Spokesman-Review and a director of The Associated Press for 33 years, who was elected a life member 5 Oct. 1926, was born in Evanston, Ill., 14 Aug. 1866, son of Alfred and Sarah Frances (Hutchinson) Cowles, and died in Spokane 15 Jan. 1946.

Mr. Cowles was descended from John[1] Cowles, born in England, who came to Massachusetts in 1634 and settled in Hartford, Conn., sometime before 1639 and died there in September 1675; through Samuel,[2] 1639–1691, who married Abigail Stanley; Capt. Isaac,[3] born in Farmington, Conn., in 1675 and died there in 1756, who married secondly, Sarah Andrews; Ezekiel,[4] 1721–1806, who married Martha Hooker; Rev. Giles Hooker,[5] 1766–1835, who married Sally White; Dr. Edwin Weld,[6] 1794–1861, who married Almira Mills Foote; and his parents, Alfred,[7] long the publisher of the Chicago Tribune, born in Austinburg, Ohio, 13 May 1832 and died 20 Dec. 1889, who married Sarah Frances Hutchinson.

Mr. Cowles graduated from Yale University in 1887 and received his law degree of LL.B. from the Yale Law School in 1889. He then went to work on the Chicago Tribune of which his father was one of the owners. After a year there he went to Spokane to enter the newspaper business. He consolidated the Spokesman with the Review and soon after the merger became sole owner of The Spokesman-Review. In 1897 he acquired the Spokane Chronicle and he sponsored the publication of the Idaho Farmer, Oregon Farmer and Washington Farmer, which have dominated the farm news field of the Pacific Northwest for more than a quarter of a century. He was a director of The Associated Press, as stated, for 33 years, and was active in many great enterprises for the upbuilding of Spokane and the Inland Empire, although he always preferred to remain in the background. A major exception was the Boy Scouts to whom he presented Camp Cowles on Diamond Lake for summer outings.

With his brother and sister, Alfred Cowles and Mrs. P. B. Stewart, Mr. Cowles established the $350,000 Alfred Cowles Foundation at Yale as a memorial to their father. The foundation provided for a chair of government. Mr. Cowles had also contributed to the New England Historic Genealogical Society and his name appears on the Washington state panel in the Corridor of States.

Mr. Cowles was married 12 Feb. 1896 to Miss Harriet Bowen Cheney of South Manchester, Conn., who passed away in Spokane in 1938. They had three children, Mrs. Harriet Cowles Graham of Santa Barbara, Calif., William Hutchinson Cowles, publisher of the Spokesman-Review and general manager of the allied publications, and Cheney Cowles, deceased.

Mrs. Herbert Livingston Satterlee (Louisa Pierpont Morgan), of New York City, elected life member 25 June 1931, was born in New York City 10 March 1866, daughter of John Pierpont and Frances Louisa (Tracy) Morgan, and died at Dover House, her country residence, in Greenwich, Conn., 7 Oct. 1946.

She married, 15 Nov. 1900, Herbert Livingston Satterlee, by whom she had two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Morgan (Satterlee) Ingalls and Mrs. Eleanor Morgan (Satterlee) Gibbs.

Mrs. Satterlee was descended from Miles[1] Morgan who came to Boston in April 1626 from Wales, married Elizabeth Bliss and settled in Springfield about 1644, through Nathaniel[2] and Hannah Bird; Joseph[3] and Mary Stebbins; Captain Joseph[4] and Experience Smith; Joseph[5] and Sally Spencer; Junius Spencer[6] and Juliet Pierpont and John Pierpont[7] and Frances Louisa Tracy.

Mrs. Satterlee was liberal in her philanthropies but carried on her benefactions quietly and without ostentation. She was chairman of the New York Comforts Committee of the Navy League during the first World War; helped organize the Churchwomen's League for Patriotic Purposes; was a supporter of Town Hall and for many years patroness of Junior Assemblies. She had served as president of the International Garden Club and was a member of the Colony Club of New York.

Mrs. Lemuel Whitney Safford (Eda Almira Whitney), of Burlington, Vt., elected an annual member 5 Nov. 1929, was born in Burlington, 13 Jan. 1877, daughter of William Elijah and Emma Almira (Payn) Whitney, and died in Burlington 18 Dec. 1946.

She was descended from John[1] Whitney, who came to Watertown, Mass., married Elinor ———, and died there 1 June 1673; through John,[2] born in England, made a Freeman 26 May 1647 and died 12 Oct. 1692, having married Ruth Reynolds; Nathaniel,[3] born in Watertown 1 Feb. 1646, married Sarah Hagar, and died in Weston, Mass., 7 Jan. 1732; Nathaniel,[4] born in Weston 5 March 1674, married Mary Robinson, and died 23 Sept. 1730; Joshua[5] who married Mehitable Nelson; Lemuel[6] who married Thankful Griffith; Joseph[7] who married Orinda Stafford; Lemuel[8] who married Catherine E. Conrow and William Elijah[9] and Emma Almira Payn, her parents.

On her mother's side Mrs. Whitney was descended from Elder Brewster of the Mayflower passengers.

She was educated at the Burlington high school, from which she graduated in June 1896 and the Burlington Business College, from which she graduated in 1897.

She married Lemuel Whitney Safford 4 June 1901. Her husband died 4 Feb. 1906 and she is survived by one son, Whitney Daniel Safford of Burlington.

John Albert Holmes, of Somerville, Mass., elected an annual member 7 Nov. 1907 and transferred to life membership 25 Feb. 1919, was born in Holyoke, Mass., 10 Feb. 1871, son of Franklin Milo and Frances Armelia (Holmes) Holmes, and died in Somerville 18 Dec. 1946.

Mr. Holmes was descended from Adam[1] Holmes, who married Hannah ——— and died in New Braintree, Mass., 4 June 1789; through Abraham,[2] born 3 March 1750 in New Braintree and died in Westford, Vt., 29 June 1833, who married Ruth Cutler of Brookfield, Mass.; John,[3] who was born 5 June 1795 in Brookfield and died 20 Oct. 1867 in Lee, Mass., who married Demaris Upham of Spencer, Mass.; and Franklin Milo,[4] born 24 Nov. 1836 in Lee, married Frances Armelia Holmes and died 21 June 1905 in Northampton, Mass.

Mr. Holmes married 16 Oct. 1901, in Somerville, Mary Florence Murdock, by whom he had two children, John Albert and Robert Webster.

He attended public schools in Williamsburg, Mass., and entered Norwich University with the class of 1895. He left college before graduation but was given the degree of C.E. in 1905, as of 1895.

He had served in the engineering departments of Boston, Somerville and Cambridge and was at one time general superintendent of parks in Cambridge. He had also been employed on engineering work in New York state and at Colorado Springs, Colo. In later years he was employed by the Charles River Basin Commission and was engaged on the construction of a dam across the Charles River at Craigie Bridge, between Boston and Cambridge.

NOTES

[1] For the evidence see Franklyn Howland, A Brief Genealogical and Biographical History of Arthur, Henry, and John Howland, and their Descendants, of the United States and Canada, etc. (New Bedford 1885); C. A. Torrey, "The Howland Ancestry", American Genealogist, 14 (1937-8), 1806; C. A. H., Jr., in Boston Transcript, 16 Dec. 1908, answer to Query 8840.

[2] For descent of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill from Henry Howland, Sr., of Fen Stanton, see New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, 73 (1942), 161. The former descends through son John of the Mayflower and wife Elizabeth Tilley; the latter, through son Arthur and wife, the widow Margaret Reid. Franklyn Howland spells the name "Read", but neither writer gives any reference.

[3] In the following transcription the spelling and capitalization of the original are followed with care, but the punctuation has been modernized in the interests of comprehension. Certain words occurring at the ends of lines are not too clear, as the paper has worn.

[4] No difference can be noted between the handwriting of the superscription and that of the body except that the H of this word is quite different from that found in all other occurrences of the name. It may be that the offical clerk inserted the heading and then gave a subordinate the task of doing the copying. In any case there can be no possibility that we have here the original will signed in person by Arthur Howland.

[5] Franklyn Howland, hereafter designated as "FH", misread this as "fourteenth".

[6] FH: the year is written out in words. In the text it is in digits underlined with a flourish.

[7] Here and elsewhere the scribe has abbreviated the first syllable by writing p with a flourish.

[8] FH: "thanks to almighty gods for the same".

[9] The words in brackets were erroneously written by the scribe and then cancelled by him.

[10] See note 7.

[11] His son-in-law, husband of daughter Mary.

[12] The scribe wrote the words here in brackets, spoiled the second word, and then cancelled both.

[13] At or near this point the scribe has apparently omitted something, since the rest of the sentence does not construe.

[14] FH abbreviates the compass directions.

[15] There can be no doubt that the scribe wrote "her", possibly thinking that the name of Assadiah Smith was feminine. The name "Assadiah" is not clear but later examples make certain that FH is wrong in reading "Amadiah" for which there is no confirmation in the Bible. Standard spelling is "Hasadiah".

[16] The g of this name is open at the top like y but the presence of aretf thereafter proves that the name is really Margarett.

[17] Here FH inserts "persons appointed".

[18] FH: "my".

[19] This word is repeated. I suggest that in the original the page ended here and that after the custom of the times the word was repeated on the next page. Cf. "whereof", repeated below in such fashion.

[20] The word occurs at the worn edge of the paper and probably did not have an apostrophe. FH omitted the word altogether.

[21] Again at the margin. Perhaps it should be four.

[22] The clause was omitted entirely by FH.

[23] FH omitted per annum.

[24] So: FH has "whersoever".

[25] FH: "noble souled".

[26] This word omitted by FH.

[27] See note 19: the two examples of whereof occur on different pages.

[28] The king's name entirely omitted by FH.

[29] FH: "Langles" which is meaningless. The L is merely a flourish.

[30] The names of the witnesses were entirely omitted by FH as not clear.

[31] The title omitted by FH. It is certainly some spelling of "governor" but it is not certain which.

[32] FH makes this ungrammatically "bequeath".

[33] FH reads this as "Crane" but the second letter must be something other than r.

[34] So the original; FH has "pillowcases" but pillosbere is an obsolete term for pillowcase.

[35] FH: "cider flite" which is meaningless. There is no doubt that the first word is "fier" and "slice" is an archaic word for a kind of poker and fits the evidence of the letters beautifully.

[36] Here for some reason not apparent, FH reads "warming pan" but the evidence is clear.

[37] The original does not total the inventory which comes to £ 24/3/0. Monetary bequests in the will itself came to fifty pounds, but of course we do not know the value of the real estate.

PATIENCE EARLE OF PERQUIMANS COUNTY, N. C.

By Mrs. Thomas Eugene Hooker, of Memphis, Tenn.

The rarity of Earle items in the North Carolina Albemarle Country lends mystery to research on this family. There are four main streams of the Earle family in America (See "Our Pioneer Ancestors", Riggs; "Old Kent", Hanson, p. 231): 1. the New England Earles, who spring from Ralph Earle of Rhode Island, 1638; 2. the Secaucus Island Earles, who descend from Edward Earle, who first came to Maryland in 1663 and was in Secaucus Island by 1673; 3. John Earle, founder of Warrington, Va., from whom the Virginia and South Carolina Earles trace their lineage; and 4. James Earle of Maryland, 1683. An intensive study of these four Earle families fails to show a connection with the Earles of Camden County, N. C. Mrs. Ila Earle Fowler, an authority on the Virginia and South Carolina Earles, who has done extensive research on this family in America and in England, believes John Earle to have been a brother of Ralph Earle of Rhode Island.

Maj. Josiah Francis Earle, for whom Earle, Ark. (Crittenden Co.) was named, was born in Camden County, N. C., 15 Sept. 1828, and was brought to Memphis, Tenn., by his parents between November 1835 and 1840. His father, Capt. Josiah Earle (mariner), was born in Camden County, N. C., 1790/1800; married 5 July 1817 Nancy D.[7] Lamb (Isaac,[6] Luke,[5] Thomas,[4] Samuel,[3] John,[2] Thomas[1]); died in 1840/50 in Memphis, Tenn. Capt. Josiah Earle was the son of Capt. Francis Earle (mariner), born before 1755; married Sarah Jones, daughter of Evan Jones, before May 1794; died in Camden County, N. C., before February 1816.

In seeking the parentage of Capt. Francis Earle, we find but few possibilities to choose from.

Francis presents this picture: 1800 Census, Camden Co., N. C., p. 102 — Francis Earle, 5 m. 10, 1 m. 16, 1 m. 45 plus, 1 f. 10, 1 f. 45. He is not to be found in the 1790 North Carolina census, nor in any census subsequent to 1800. The probable explanation of this is that he was a sea-faring man. From records of Exports & Imports, Dept. of Archives & History, Raleigh, N. C.; Port Currituck, 5 Feb. 1788 — "Schooner Peggy & Betsy — Francis Earle Master — from St. Bartholom — Cargo Rum"; and again, Port Currituck, 21 March 1785 — "Sch. their interest in land in Tiverton, which Patience had inherited from her father, Josiah Stafford, of Tiverton (Bristol County, Mass., deeds 34–417; Warren, R. I., deeds I–28; Warren, R. I., deeds I–27; Tiverton, R. I., deeds I–50).

From the Friends Records of Swansea, we find that on 2 March 1747 John[4] Earle, Sr., requested a certificate of transfer to the monthly meeting of Oblong (Dutchess Co., N. Y.). On 6 April 1747 a request was made for similar certificates (to be added to the father's) for the two sons of John Earle, Sr. On 4 April 1748 the certificate of transfer to the Oblong Monthly Meeting was granted. From the Women's Monthly Meeting of Swansea, on 2 March 1747 Sarah Earle, wife of John Earle, Sr., requested a certificate corresponding to her husband's. On 6 April 1747, Patience Earle, wife of John Earle, Jr., requested a similar certificate (Records of Friends of Swansea, Mass., beginning with the year 1732, pages unnumbered, kept in the vault of the Moses Brown School, Providence, R. I.). Unfortunately, the records of the Oblong Monthly Meeting for this period are missing.

From the Dutchess County, N. Y., court records, we are able to glean little. John[5] Earle, Jr., had a posthumous son, John Earle, born 28 Dec. 1748 (James Smith's "History of Dutchess Co.", p. 284: "Early births in the town of Clinton: John Earll, son of John Earll dec. was born the 28th day of Dec. 1748".). Joseph[5] Earle (John[4] Earle) bought land of Samuel Cornell (possibly a relative) on 17 July 1749 (recorded 26 April 1750), with this description: "Lot 27 Bounded N. by Samuel Cornell, S. by John Earl son of John Earl Jr. late deceased, W. by Richard Satherly, and E. by road" ("Records of Crum Elbow Precinct", F. D. Roosevelt, p. 56). Lot 27 is near what is now called Chestnut Ridge, S.E. of present Millbrook next to what was then Beeckman, but is now probably Dover. There would be one more row of lots between this and the Connecticut line.

From the New York Historical Collection, it is noted that the estate of Joseph Earle was administered by his widow, Eunice, 31 July 1751, in Dutchess County, N. Y., and that the estate of John Earle, Sr., was administered in the same county by Jacob Haight on 4 April 1754.

From the office of the Surrogate Court of New York County, we learn that "Jacob Haight of Crum Elbow Precinct in Dutchess Co., Farmer, principal creditor of John Earle the Elder late of the same place, Farmer, deceased ———", etc. Letters of administration on this estate were granted Jacob Haight on 4 April 1754. On 31 July 1751 "Timothy Ricketson of the Co. of Dutchess yeoman, the Attorney of Eunice Earl Widow and relict of Joseph Earl late of the same County yeoman deceased" was granted letters of administration on the estate of Joseph Earle.

No further deeds, wills, settlements, etc., are found in Dutchess County. From these brief items, we conclude that by 4 April 1748 John[4] Earle, Sr., his wife and two sons, John[5] Earle, Jr., and Joseph[5] Earle, and their wives, Patience and Eunice, were on their way to Dutchess County. John[5] Earle, Jr., was dead by 28 Dec. 1748, when his posthumous child, John[6] Earle III, was born. Joseph[5] Earle was dead by 31 July 1751. John[4] Earle, Sr., was dead by 4 April 1754. These Earles, father and sons, lived in Crum Elbow Precinct, near the town of Clinton, Dutchess Co., where they died.

As we are mainly interested in John[5] Earle, Jr., his widow and children, we will continue to try to pick up bits of information to tell us something concerning the life of this little family after the death of John, Jr.

On 20 July 1911 the New Bedford Public Library, New Bedford, Mass., came into possession of a manuscript by the Rev. Pardon G. Seabury. There was nothing in these papers to indicate when the manuscript was compiled. However, pages 44 & 45 give the following: "Descendants of Richard & Joan Borden", compiled by Rev. Pardon Gray Seabury, p. 44 — "#367 Joseph Borden, Ships Carpenter, Core Sound, N. C., married Hannah Stafford: Children, 6th Gen.: #444 Mary, b. at Core Sound in N. C., married Samuel Little of Little Compton, R. I., Dec. 15, 1771; #445 Theophilus, b. Core Sound, N. C., married Anna Springer; #446 Josiah, b. Core Sound, N. C., married Susanna Salsbury (widow) mother of Capt. Samuel & Wanton Salisbury of Tiverton, R. I. (Tiverton, R. I., Bk. 5, p. 63: married 6–15–1784 by Thos. Durfee, Justice)."

According to this manuscript, Joseph Borden "removed at an early day to Carolina, probably with his uncle William Borden, who established himself as a shipbuilder on Core Sound or New-Port river near to the present site of Beaufort, N. C." The manuscript continues with information concerning the Stafford family of Tiverton, and refers to letters written to their parents by the children of Josiah and Sarah Stafford. A letter from Samuel and Sarah Stafford addressed to their honoured mother, then a Widow in Tiverton, dated 17 Feb. 1751, came from Nine Partners, N. Y. Another from Hannah Borden, to the same, was dated at Core Sound, N. C., 27 July 1752. A third letter is from PATIENCE who had married a man by the name of Earl, 21 Oct. 1752. Another from Patience Earl to her mother was dated "North Carolina the 19th of 3 mo 1773." [Note: Could this have been erroneously copied, and have been 1753 instead of 1773, as the mother, Sarah Stafford, was dead in 1754?]

On 22 Dec. 1764 in Perquimans County, N. C., "Miss Sarah Earles" was married to George Walton, Richard Hodges, security (Hathaway, 3–413). Then, on 8 April 1765 in Tiverton, "——— Patience Earll of the County of Perquimans in North Carolina, widow, for Sundry good causes ——— by these presents do — appoint ——— my trusty and well beloved Friend GEORGE WALTON of ye sd County in North Carolina, marriner, my true & Lawfull Attorney to Sell & Deliver for me and in my name & to my use, Behoof all my Right or property — in the house & Land that was my mother, Sarah Staffords thirds Laying in Tiverton in the Government of Rhode Island in New England —" etc. Signed

ROGER BARTON OF WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y., AND SOME OF HIS EARLIER DESCENDANTS

By George E. McCracken, of Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa

Undertaken independently, this study was already nearing completion when it became possible to examine in detail the extensive Barton data contained in the papers of the late Adolph Law Voge, now deposited in the Manuscripts Division of the Library of Congress. Though Mr. Voge ultimately hoped to publish a Barton genealogy, he was only partially successful in giving his material to the light in three brief forms: (1) an inconclusive note on the English ancestry (N. Y. Gen. & Biogr. Rec., 60.40 f.); (2) the text of an address entitled "Roger Barton's Kinsmen", delivered in 1937 and available in mimeographed form in most genealogical libraries; and (3) contributions to a book bearing the same title, published in 1940 by Mrs. Margaret Alberta Barton McLean, of Magundy, York Co., New Brunswick. The papers reveal that Mr. Voge was particularly fortunate in gathering Barton material from unprinted official sources in southern New York and from family archives preserved by descendants, chiefly, but not entirely, in the same area. Not all of this information has by any means been included herein, and frequently Mr. Voge's conclusions are abandoned, sometimes silently. Pending completion of investigations now in progress or in prospect, it would be dangerous to say more about Roger Barton's English ancestry than to assert, with considerable conviction, that as yet no evidence having the slightest validity has been presented by anyone. Correspondence, whether inquiry or contribution, is therefore earnestly invited. This article was completed in 1950 and galley proof read in the fall of 1951. This made it impossible to take into consideration the excellent article by Mr. Harry C. W. Melick "The Fordham 'Ryott' of July 16, 1688", The New York Historical Society Quarterly, 36 (April, 1952), 210–220, but I do not now desire to change any of the statements made concerning the riot.

1. Roger[1] Barton, the immigrant ancestor from whom this family decends, was probably born in England, and since on 17 July 1688 he testified under oath (Westchester Deeds A–269) that he was then "aged 60 or thereabouts", his birth took place about the year 1628. Though he is often identified with that Barton who on 14 Aug. 1642 signed a lease with the Rev. Everardus Bogardus for the sixty-two acres of the famous farm of Bogardus' wife Anneke Jans, this identification rests upon an error in indexing the still extant document, the real tenant having been Rufus Barton, as is shown in The American Genealogist, vol. 27, no. 3, July 1951, pp. 136–8, under the title of "Rufus Barton, not Roger, In Manhattan 1642".

The first undoubted record of our Roger Barton on this continent is to be found in the town records of Brookhaven, Long Island, where on 23 Oct. 1662 Roger Barton was one of four appointed to lay out the town. The name "Rog. Barton" is signed to a Brookhaven deed, as recorder, on 10 June 1664, and, again, "Rog. Bartones" signed with others a contract to build a mill on "10 mo. 12, 1664" (12 Dec. 1664?). He may have been the earliest town clerk of Brookhaven which had been settled from Connecticut in 1655 and joined that colony in 1661. With three others, he is styled "Mr." in these records, a fact which suggests that he was a man of some importance, and his wife, as will appear, is designated as "Mrs. Barton", even in conjunction with another woman who is merely termed "goodwife Bloomer". On 25 April 1664 Roger was named deputy to the General Court and is probably the "Mr. Barton" made freeman of Connecticut at the General Assembly which met at Hartford on 12 May 1664 (Public Records of Connecticut [Hartford 1850], 1.428). On 23 Jan. 1664/5 he was appointed at Brookhaven one of six arbitrators; in the same year fined for absence, and named an appraiser. He purchased land in Brookhaven on 25 Feb. 1664/5; sold a meadow to Henry Perring at an unknown date; and other land to Francis Munsey and Wm. Satierly. In April 1665 he was again appointed one of the deputies to the General Court. Thus far, all the Brookhaven items concern Connecticut and not New York.

At a court, however, held on 31 Oct. 1665 in New York City, the defendant Abram Pietersen Corleyn, accused of selling strong beer to the Indians, gave as his excuse that "Mr. Borton" had given his oral assent thereto (New Amsterdam Records, 5.311). This may, as Mr. Voge believed, be our Roger Barton, for, with one other, Roger Barton was elected on 1 March 1665/6 to represent Seatalcott or Brookhaven (Fernow, Docs. Rel. Col. Hist. of N. Y., 14.565) at a convention held at Hempstead at the call of Governor Richard Nicolls of New York when the East, West, and North Ridings of New Yorkshire were established and the Duke's Laws were put into effect on 11 March 1665/6.

If the reference by Corleyn is to our man, this may be evidence of growing unpopularity, for in May 1666 orders were given by Governor Nicolls for the arrest and expulsion of Roger Barton and Robert Bloomer from Brookhaven. The arrest appears to have been resisted, for on 22 May 1666 Governor Nicolls issued a commission to Messrs. Mathias Nicolls (no relation to Richard), William Wells, and Jonas Wood, "to Examine into the Riotous misdemeanors of some p[er]sons in Seatalcott". The commission makes clear that the constable had been hindered in the exercise of his duties by "some ill affected p[er]sons" who "did riotously Affront and Assault him, and wounded others who came to his Assistance, And withall, then and there (as also at severall other Times,) have given out and used evill words and speeches, tending to the derogat[i]on of his Ma.ties Authority, and against the Peace of this Government". The three commissioners, who were, respectively, "Secretary of the Councell", "high Sheriffe of Yorkshire upon Long Islan[d]", and "Justice of the Peace of the East Riding", were to investigate the

CARRIER BIBLE

With the above Davis-Sadderlee Bible record, the Society received another record, obviously removed from a Bible apparently published in the third quarter of the 19th century. The first page of the record is an elaborately decorated marriage "certificate," lithographed in color, filled out in purple ink in the same handwriting as that of the earlier entries. The remaining entries, marked with

The Original
SCOTS COLONISTS
of Early America,
1612-1783

By David Dobson

This volume is a compilation of all extant records pertaining to the original Scottish emigrants to the American colonies. For each of the 7,000 persons listed, much of the following information is given: name, date of birth or baptism, place of birth, occupation, residence, names of parents, date of emigration, port of embarkation, name of ship, place and date of arrival, name of spouse, names of children, date and place of death, where buried, probate records, and source citation.

Every known source of information was investigated, so as far as primary source material in Great Britain is concerned, this work is virtually definitive.

AMERICAN WILLS & ADMINISTRATIONS
in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury,
1610-1857

Compiled by Peter W. Coldham

Thousands of Englishmen who emigrated to America between 1610 and 1857 died leaving estates in England. Proving their wills and granting administrations in England were matters dealt with by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury (PCC). This present work provides the researcher with a comprehensive collection of abstracts of the wills and grants of administration registered in the PCC which substantiate American connections.

Altogether there are approximately 6,000 abstracts, and the index of names contains references to an additional 5,000 persons.

Administration on Joseph's estate was granted to Abigail Fayerweather 5 December 1732 (Fairfield Probate District, File 2155). His inventory, taken by I. Chauncey and Ephraim Hubbell, was filed 4 April 1733 and totaled £558 6s. 10*d*. A separate accounting of debts listed totals of £256 15s. 5*d*. plus £5 8s. 10*d*., including £43 6s. 4*d*. owed to his uncle, John Fayerweather, was allowed 9 May 1737. Abigail was appointed guardian to Hannah on 4 March 1734/5, and on 20 January 1747/8, Hannah chose William Odell for her guardian (Jacobus, Old Fairfield, 2:335).

Joseph had died before his mother, but following her death in May 1743, Joseph's widow requested, on 19 August of the same year, that his share in her dower be given to his only daughter, Hannah. The request was opposed by Joseph's brothers, John, Thomas, and Benjamin, presumably on the basis that Joseph had sold his share in their father's estate to his brother John (Register, 144:20), and that this was but another part of that estate. However, the court thought otherwise, and on 6 October 1744, distribution was ordered to John Fayerweather, Thomas Fayerweather, Benjamin Fayerweather, and Hannah Fayerweather, a daughter of Joseph Fayerweather, deceased (Fairfield Probate Abstracts, 1704-1757, 37, citing original vol. 7). In 1743 Abigail Fayerweather, executrix of the last will of Joseph Fayerweather, was allowed to sell lands to settle debts due to be paid by the estate (Charles J. Hoadley, Public Records of the Colony of Connecticut [Hartford, 1873], 15 vols., 7:494).

27. i. HANNAH[5], b. 30 Nov. 1731 (Fairfield VRs); m. JOSEPH BROTHWELL.

15. THOMAS[4] FAYERWEATHER (Benjamin[3], John[2], Thomas[1]) was born 17 October 1709, baptized at Stratfield, Connecticut, 23 October 1709 (Old Fairfield, 2:199), and died probably at Norwalk between 27 September 1799, when he acknowledged a deed of that date and 10 April 1800, when that deed was recorded (Norwalk Deeds, 19:224). His name does not appear in the 1800 Federal Census for Connecticut.

He married MARY HANFORD by 9 May 1733, the date of her father's will in which she was named as Mary Fayerweather (Fairfield Probate Abstracts 1704-1757, 70, citing original vol. 9). No birth date has yet been found for Mary, but she was the daughter of Thomas and Hannah (Lockwood) (Burwell) Hanford, who were married about 1692 (Frederic A. Holden and E. Dunbar Lockwood, compilers, Descendants of Robert Lockwood - Colonial and Revolutionary History of the Lockwood Family in America from A.D. 1630 [Philadelphia, 1889], 54), so if Mary were married about 1730 at age 20, she would have been born about 1710. She died probably before 21 February 1744/5, when her mother made her will without mentioning her.

A land division dated 1 October 1764 provides further evidence of this Fayerweather - Hanford connection. On that date, Ebenezer Smith and wife Elizabeth, Lyndal Fitch and wife Mary, Hannah Hanford, widow, Ephraim Smith and wife Isabel, and Thomas Fairweather who bought the share of Sarah Saterly (Sarah, Elizabeth, Hannah, Mary, and Isabel being daughters of John Bartlett of Norwalk and granddaughters of William Haynes of Norwalk) agreed on the division of land in Norwalk including 14 acres of upland and meadow called the hay lot, and 77 acres at Rockwell Hill (Norwalk Deeds, 12:241). Hannah Hanford was the second wife and widow of Elnathan Hanford (1707-1764), older brother of Thomas's wife Mary (Hanford) Fayerweather. On 17 March 1770, Thomas Fairweather of Norwalk sold 110 poles of land there to John Sanders of Norwalk (ibid., 13:436).

No clear records have been found to show that Thomas[4] Fayerweather was considered a Loyalist by his neighbors and contemporaries, although local actions against Loyalists in Norwalk between 1779 and 1781 are a bit confusing. Fairfield County, Connecticut, court records include a writ issued 3 September 1779 in the case of Selectmen of Norwalk vs. Thomas Fairweather, Jr., and note further that his estate was confiscated in the November court because he "did go over to join and screen himself under the protection of the enemies of the United States while they were burning, plundering, and destroying the buildings and effects of the inhabitants of Norwalk" (Lois Bayles, comp., Norwalk Tories [Lockwood House, a Museum of the City of Norwalk, 1974]). This must be Thomas[5] (Thomas[4]).

A 20 April 1781 list of Norwalk residents considered "inimical persons" by an action of the town, included, among others, Thomas Fayerweather and Thomas Hanford (Edwin Hall, comp., The Ancient Historical Records of Norwalk, Conn. .... [Norwalk, 1847], 140). These men are harder to identify, since declaration of inimicability did not always lead to deportation, so they could be Thomas[4] and his brother-in-law, or Thomas[5] and his cousin, or any two of the four. If it does refer to Thomas[4], perhaps it is a reaction to the fact that his son Thomas[5] was a Loyalist who went inside the British lines following General Tryon's raid on Norwalk 11 July 1779, and went to New Brunswick in 1783.

Furthermore, Thomas[4] was still in Connecticut after the Loyalists had left for New Brunswick. A badly damaged record notes that on 3 November 1783 the Fairfield County Court granted a judgement against Thomas Fayerweather of Norwalk in favor of the estate of Benjamin Isaacs, deceased, late of Norwalk, in the amount of £139 5s.

Rt. Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, D. C.

It is not any great task, to trace the genealogy of the American Satterlee family. The family, originally, came from the village of Satterlee, Suffolk, England, and it has been in America, since 1685. It is descended from Benedict Satterlee, the son of the Rev. William Satterlee, vicar of Saint Ida's Chuch, Ide, Devonshire. The latter was a Royalist and was sequestered from his parish during Cromwell's time and imprisoned in a stable for a long time. During the days of the Colonial wars, a younger Benedict Satterlee, was Lieutenant of a Connecticut Company, and afterwards he was killed during the Revolutionary war, in the massacre of Wyoming. He was Bishop Satterlee's great, great grandfather.

Mr. Satterlee is the first church clergyman in the family, in America, and after the Rev. William Satterlee, Vicar of Ide. Mr. Satterlee was born in New York City, corner of Greenwich and Carlyle streets, two blocks from the battery. His father, Edward Satterlee, married Jane Anna Yates, the daughter of Henry Yates, the intimate friend of Dewitt Clinton, and brother of Governor Joseph Yates. While he was a child the family moved to Albany, to live with Henry Yates, in the old Governor Mansion, which he had purchased and which had previously been occupied by Governor Seward and his predecessors. In the early years of his life, he had a tutor. At the age of twelve, he was sent to Dr. Parker's school, and after that he attended the Columbia Grammar School, both, strange to say, were within a few hundred feet of Calvary Rectory, as were the residences of his father, and also that of Mrs. Satterlee's father. On the death of his grandfather, Henry Yates, the family in 1856 returned to New York city. At that time he went to Europe, and on his return, entered the junior class of Columbia college, in June, 1860, and the Sophomore class in the autumn of the same year.

Dr. Satterlee received the degree of Doctor of Laws (L.L.D.) from Columbia College, June, 1897.

The family residence, in this period was at West Point, and for eighteen years of his life, he desired to enter the U. S. Military Academy, and become an army officer, but when he graduated from Columbia College in 1863, he failed to secure an appointment to the Academy. He then determined to study for the ministry, entering the General Theological Seminary, of the Episcopal church in September, 1863. This was a somewhat difficult step for him to take, as all the members of his family on both paternal and maternal sides had, for generations, belonged to the Dutch Reformed communions. Two years later, September, 1865, he became a lay reader, and on the 3d of said month he was elected assistant at Zion church here. On November 21st, 1865, he was ordained Deacon, in St. Paul's church, Flatbush. On his 24th birthday, January 11, 1867, he was advanced to the priesthood. Dr. G. Andrews was in his 80th year when Mr. Satterlee came to assist him, and he lived until his 90th. On Sept. 3d, 1875, he was elected Rector of this parish, a remarkable coincidence ten years to the day and hour from being elected assistant.

In 1888, Dr. Satterlee, was elected Assistant Bishop of Ohio, and in 1889, Bishop of Michigan, both of which honors, he felt obliged to decline. In 1890, his name was before the convention of the diocese of Massachusetts. In fact the Rev. Phillip Brooks and himself, were the only candidates. The former was elected. On December 6, 1895, he was elected Bishop of Washington, and was consecrated to that office on March 25th, 1896. When the Bishop first began to attend the Episcopal church regularly, Bishop Coxe was Rector of Calvary church, New York, and his first bible class was under Bishop Walker at that time assistant minister at Calvary. The latter presented Mr. Satterlee to priest's orders when he was made a priest in St. Anne's church, New York. He was baptized in Calvary church by Bishop Coxe and afterwards consecrated by him. During the summer of 1896, Bishop Satterlee was selected to present the petition of the Bishops, and Ministers of various Christian bodies (representing over forty millions of Christians) to the Emperor of Russia. It was distinctly a religious, non-political petition, in the name of Christ on behalf of the suffering brother Christians, of the Turkish Empire. After waiting, nearly a month, in St. Petersburg, he was most graciously received in a private interview, by the Emperor and Empress, on August 5th, and by the Dowager Empress on August 7th. All through these weeks he had the great privilege of seeing daily, the Metropolitan, and Archbishop of Cilicia, who had come from the far east, on the same mission, in behalf of the suffering Christians, and whose home was in Tarsus, St. Paul's own native city. One son, and one daughter were born to Mr. and Mrs. Satterlee, the Rev Churchill Satterlee, now Rector of Grace church, Morgantown, North Carolina, and Dean of Morgantown Convention, and Constance Satterlee, who with her mother, and the Bishop, are now living at the Bishop's House, in Washington. HOME OF COLONEL ISAAC SATTERLY[5] AND BIRTHPLACE OF GENERAL JOHN R. SATTERLY[6]
Setauket, L. I.

SATTERLY

Among the original proprietors of Brookhaven in 1656 was WILLIAM SATTERLY[1] who with John Moger and Samuel Dayton, was drowned in Long Island Sound sometime between 1677 and 1680, in returning from Milford Conn., where they had been for the purpose of having their own and their neighbor's grain ground into flour as was the practise of that day before the erection of a mill in Brookhaven. Their hats were found washed ashore on the beach but their bodies were never recovered. William Satterly[1] was a man of considerable wealth and possessed silver household utensils which were exceedingly rare in those days.

He is supposed to be one of three brothers who came from Cheshire, England, the other two settling in Connecticut and the southern part of the United States respectively. This is the opinion held by the older generations of the family on Long Island and some in Connecticut and is so stated in an account of the family written by Isaac S. Satterly[6] son of Col. Isaac,[5] about 1830. On the other hand Augustus F. Satterlee of the Connecticut branch in a Ms. genealogy of his branch compiled in 1849 for Benjamin F. Thompson, states that their ancestor Benedict, who emigrated to Connecticut about 1680 from the vicinity of Exeter, Devonshire England, was a son of William Satterly who may have been the William that settled on Long Island, as he suggests. Although this supposition has not been proved, I think it is correct as there seems to be considerable difference in the ages of William and Benedict, but they could very well be father and son. If so, Benedict came to this country at a later period than William. Whatever the exact relation between the progenitors of the two branches may be, it is very probable that they belonged to the same family, as this opinion has been held by the older generations of both branches who no doubt had evidences of this fact which we do not possess.

The Long Island family have preserved the old spelling Satterly, while those in New England spell it Satterlee.

WILLIAM[2] son of William[1] resided at Setauket and was also a prominent man in the town. It is related of him that he owned property on the south side of the island and while there, fell by accident into the Great South Bay. He was rescued by an Indian woman to whom he gave a Dutch blanket every year during the balance of his life, in gratitude for saving his life.

The compiler has in his possession an inventory of William Satterly's estate taken Jan. 10, 1729, seven years after his death.

The document is witnessed by Richard Woodhull and Samuel Thompson and shows that he possessed a considerable estate. Elizabeth Satterly is named as executrix and there is some doubt as to her relation to the deceased. She may have been a third wife or one of the four daughters. He was b. Dec. 22, 1660 md. Mary d. of the said John Moger and d. April 22, 1722 aged 62. He was buried in the Presbyterian Churchyard at Setauket and his tombstone is still standing. This mill was built by John Wade under a grant from the town dated March 31, 1680. About one hundred years later Richard Woodhull was the owner. When the mill finally became the property of Col. Satterly, he released the town from its obligation to keep the dam in repair, which clause had been incorporated in the grant to Wade in 1680. Until recent times, the mill was in possession of Col. and without ostentation. He was a member and elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Elmira, an active worker in the church, and superintendent of the Sunday school.

Robert W. Barton married, September 14, 1859, Ruth T. Satterlee, born in Elmira, New York, April 28, 1838, daughter of Timothy S. and Mary Ann (Seeley) Satterlee. Mr. Barton is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruth T. (Satterlee) Barton, and by a grandson, Walter Barton Herendeen, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Barton's daughter, Ida S., who married Edward G. Herendeen, an attorney of Elmira, New York. Both Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Herendeen are deceased, and both are laid at rest in Woodlawn Cemetery.

The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church of Elmira, December 16, 1908:

Whereas: Our Heavenly Father in all wise and loving Providence has removed from our midst our brother, Robert Walter Barton; and whereas: Brother Barton had been for many years a faithful member of our church, a worker in our Sunday School and had filled the office of deacon from 1866-1880; of Elder from 1880-1883; and of trustee from 1883 until his death; and, whereas: he was ever a liberal supporter of the church in all branches of the work; Resolved: that in his death our club and our church have sustained a severe blow. Resolved: that we tender to his widow our sincere sympathy in this her sad bereavement. Resolved: that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Barton—that they be published in the city papers and also spread upon the minutes of the club.

The English family of Satterly descended from Edward Satterly, a knight of Suffolk, England, 1235, through tradition, but is completely traced from William Satterly, vicar of St. Ide, near Exeter, England, Master of Arts, Pembroke College, Oxford, who was imprisoned by Cromwell for loyalty to his King. His son, William, was also a clergyman of the Established Church, and another son, Benedict, was a captain in the English Navy, who, while his vessel lay in the harbor of New London, Connecticut, became enamoured of a young lady of the town, and rather than leave her he resigned his commission and remained in New London, where on August 2, 1682, Benedict Satterly and Rebecca Bemis, daughter of James Bemis, of New London, were married. Their son, William Satterlee (as he spelled the name), born in New London, Connecticut, in 1684, married Anne Avery, of Groton; their son, Benedict Satterlee, born August 11, 1714, married January 16, 1738, Elizabeth Crary, of New London; their son, William Satterlee, was a soldier of the French and Indian War, and a brigade major in the Revolution. He was later a captain in the first regular army established under the present form of government in the United States. Anothor son of Benedict and Elizabeth (Crary) Satterlee, was Samuel Satterlee, born March 2, 1744, in Plainfield, Connecticut, a captain of "minute-men" in the Revolution, who after the war settled in Burnt Hills, Saratoga County, New York, where he died April 12, 1831, aged eighty-eight years. He married, about 1773, Prudence Rathbone, of Rye, New York, daughter of Rev. John and Content (Brown) Rathbone, Rev. John Rathbone continuing pulpit preaching until reaching the age of ninety-six years.

It was from one of the sons of Benedict and Elizabeth (Crary) Satterlee that Mrs. Barton descends, through Dr. Elias Satterlee, born in Connecticut, February 14, 1773, the youngest of a family of twelve. He settled in the Wyoming Valley of Pennsylvania, with others from Connecticut, but the Indian troubles drove them out and he returned to Connecticut, where he prepared for the medical profession, coming to Elmira in 1803, that city then known as Newtown. He practiced his profession in that locality until his accidental death, November 15, 1815, his remains now resting in Woodlawn Cemetery, Elmira, having been removed there by his granddaughter, Mrs. Ruth T. (Satterlee) Barton. Dr. Satterlee married, in Elmira, December 7, 1805, Rev. Simeon R. Jones officiating, Elizabeth (Betsey) Smith, born March 19, 1782, daughter of Timothy Smith, one of the Smith brothers who settled the Valley of South Creek, Chenango County, New York. She died January 10, 1867, and is buried in Woodlawn Cemetery. Children: 1. Fannie Little, born September 28, 1806, married Dr. Jonathan Purdy. 2. Rachel Park, born July 24, 1808, married Thomas Dunn, of Elmira. 3. Timothy Smith, of whom further. 4. Benedict, born May 17, 1812, a missionary to the Pawnee Country, and is believed to have been killed by Indians, September 28, 1841. 5. Esther, born August 22, 1814, removed to Wisconsin.

Timothy Smith Satterlee, son of Dr. Elias and Elizabeth (Smith) Satterlee, was born in Elmira, New York, February 10, 1810, and there became a successful merchant and well known business man. He died, in the prime of life, December 3, 1857, and now rests in the family plot in Woodlawn Cemetery, by the side of his father, Mrs. Barton, his daughter, having his remains removed at the time Dr. Elias Satterlee's were.

Timothy S. Satterlee married, June 20, 1833, Mary Ann Seeley, daughter of Henry and Ruth (Tuthill) Seeley, of Chester, Orange County, New York, also of Connecticut ancestry. This family name, spelled both Tuthill and Tuttle, was brought to New England in 1635, John, Richard, and William Tuttle arriving on the ship "Planter." One branch settled in Connecticut, centering around New Haven and becoming a wealthy and influential family. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy S. Satterlee: 1. Albert S., born April 20, 1834. 2. Elias B., born March 13, 1836. 3. Ruth Tuthill, married Robert Walter Barton, whom she survives, occupying the home on West Church Street, Elmira, which has been her residence for half a century. She is a member of the First Presbyterian Church and a much traveled lady, accompanying her husband in his many tours to foreign lands. She was with her husband in Dresden, Germany, at the time of his death, and for weeks was prostrated and unable to return home, but her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Satterlee crossed the Atlantic to her aid, and with the dust of her husband she sailed from Hamburg, January 16, 1909, on the "Victoria," of the Hamburg line, arriving in New York on January 26th, following. She is a most charitable and kindly-hearted lady, beloved by all who know her.

Genealogical History of the Rutherford Family. By William Kenneth Rutherford and Anna Clay (Zimmerman) Rutherford, P. O. Box 85, Lexington, MO 64067, 1969. 2 vols. 802 pp. Index in each vol.

Thirty years and much hard work have gone into the making of this genealogy in which are recorded over 9,000 persons of Rutherford descent. It is apparent that the compilers consulted many records and printed works, and had an extensive correspondence with members of the family from all parts of the country.

Yet, in spite of the fact that these two volumes are well printed and beautifully illustrated, and preserve the records of thousands of persons, the work is unsatisfactory. It is alleged that the Rutherfords aare descended from an obscure individual named "Robertus dominus de Rodyrforde" who witnessed a charter of King David I of Scotland in 1140. (The footnote citation for this statement is Burke's 1882 Landed Gentry of Great Britain and Ireland, certainly not an authoritative reference.) As a matter of fact the name is of territorial origin, derived from the lands of Rutherford in the parish of Maxton, Roxburghshire (George F. Black, The Surnames of Scotland, 1946, p. 705). It is conceivable that, in addition to the historic House of Rutherford, many unrelated families could have called themselves Rutherford after these lands.

No documentation is presented to prove the successive generations descending from "Robertus." Heavy reliance is placed on an out-of-date work, The Rutherfords of that Ilk and their Cadets (1884). No evidence, only the compilers' assertion, is deduced to prove the parentage of such immigrants as Robert Rutherford (d. after 21 Aug. 1728) of Essex Co., Va.; Robert Rutherford (d. 1770?) of Trenton, N. J.; Thomas Rutherford (d. 1777) of Dauphin Co., Pa.; and Gen. Griffith Rutherford (d. 1805) of North Carolina and Tennessee. The footnote citations for these people are all to printed books. No original research seems to have been undertaken in Scotland to verify the alleged lines of descent.

While our criticisms have been directed toward the undue weight of the compilers have given to previously printed books to show the connecting links with Scotland, it must be emphasized that for the American generations they have consulted primary sources, either original or published documents. This is shown by the footnotes and the eleven-page bibliography at the end of the first volume.

Satterlee-ley-ly & Allied Families Genealogy. By Goldie Satterlee Moffatt, 445 Altura Drive, Perris, CA 92370, assisted by John L. Satterlee, 1970. 225 pp. Index (60 unnumbered pp.).

Regrettably, Mrs. Moffatt has turned out a poorly organized work. It is not until we reach p. 84 that we discover this is a genealogy of the descendants of Nicholas Satterlee who settled in Westerly, R. I., in 1669. The early part of the book favors us with a potpourri—lists of Satterlees in hereditary societies, Satterlee biographical sketches in reference works (National Cyclopaedia of American Biography, etc.), accounts of the Lancastrians and the Wars of the Roses (from Winston Churchill's The Birth of Britain), laws relating to the keeping of parish registers, 1538-1853 (this section, pp. 13-14, can be considered important, if the compiler has accurately abstracted the laws), genealogical research in England and Wales, adoption of surnames, data copied from Arthur Mee's The King's England and Hammond's Colonial Mansions of Maryland and Delaware (1914), "Old Satterley Hall" in co. Suffolk, England, information about Maine, letters to Mrs. Moffatt from Satterlees and others, family reunions, newspaper items, history of the calendar, etc.

On pp. 79-80 the ancestry of three Satterlee colonists, Nicholas of Westerly, R. I., William of Setauket, N. Y., and Benedict of New Haven, Conn. is traced for 27 generations to William the Conqueror. It is something of a shock to discover that the King married "Lady Ingelrica dau. of Ingelric;" historians have assured us that his wife was Matilda, daughter of Count Baldwin V of Flanders. Certainly, William never had a son, "William Peverill, Earl of Nottingham, d. 1091." There were no Earls of Nottingham until 1377, when John de Mowbray received the title. The entire English ancestry must be discarded. What is the proof for making the three colonists brothers?

The genealogy of the descendants of Nicholas Satterlee and his wife Mary may be correct, but the "sources" seem to be generally printed works including D.A.R. Lineage Books. Throughout this portion of the book (pp. 84-225) letters to Mrs. Moffatt pop up disconcertingly. It would have been wiser to have constructed an orderly genealogy with the letters, quotations from books, etc. in an appendix.

Strode and Stroud Families in England and America. By James Strode Elston, 1640 Palmer Ave., Winter Park, Fla. Published by Chedwato Services, R.F.D. No. 3, Box 120A, Middleboro, MA 02346, 1970. Vol. 2. 165 pp. Index.

Descent from Seventy-Nine (Now Ninety-Two) Early Immigrant Heads of Families. By James Strode Elston. Published by Chedwato Service. Vol. 2, 1971. 170 pp. Index. $9.00.

Volume I of Strode and Stroud Families was reviewed in the Quarterly for September 1950, and volume I of the second-named work in the Quarterly for September 1964. Both volumes supplement their predecessors, and in the case of the second, the 79 immigrant ancestors have been increased to 92. This reviewer regrets the inclusion in vol. 2 of the Strode and Stroud Families of a lineage from a fictitious "Warinus de la Strode, a knight after 1066." This is from various English publications now long out-of-date. Much useful information on miscellaneous English and American families of Strode and Stroud is given, and it is apparent that Mr. Elston has read widely on the subject. Except for copying the long and unproved English lineage from the Conquest time, the compiler does question his authorities and attempts to analyze his findings. Discrepancies in different transcripts of the same family Bible are noted, and if he can not prove a connection he describes it as "probable," if, in his opinion, the evidence so indicates.

Vol. 2 of the Descent provides additions and corrections to the first volume as well as information on the "new" families. Mr. Elston is an omnivorous reader; very little in print seems to escape him, whether in books or in genealogical periodicals. Much of his research seems to be in libraries, although it is apparent that he has done research among primary records or employed professional genealogists. Mr. Elston shows himself to be a true genealogist at heart; in Appendix II, he points out that in his quest of his ancestor, William Jackson, of Goshen, N. Y., "I secured so much information about the early Jackson families of Orange Co., N. Y. that it seems worth while to try to coordinate it and make it more generally available to others." The next 24 pages are taken up with genealogies of the several families of Jackson living in the same area. The book concludes with an interesting account of the compiler's parents, Jacob Tice and Anna Mary (Strode) Elston, pioneers from Elmira, N. Y., to Montana in the last quarter of the 19th century.

Taliaferro-Toliver Family Records. Compiled by Nell (Mrs. Frank J.) Sherman, 725 S. 4th St., Springfield, IL 62703, 1960. 203 pp. Index (39 unnumbered pp.). $15.00.

Through a deeply regretted oversight we failed to publish a review of this book at the time it was received several years ago. Our apologies to Mrs. Sherman and to Mr. Alan Taliaferro Calhoun, Spartanburg, S. C., who generously provided us with a review copy.

The bulk of the book deals with the descendants of Robert Taliaferro, an early settler in Gloucester Co., Va. The name was altered to Toliver by some branches. Although much of the information is purely statistical (births, marriages, deaths) the book con-

The story has come to the compiler (G.S.M.) that a William Satterly born 1632 (son of Thomas) near Exeter, England, became a clergyman of the Established Church & came to America before 1655; He was said to be one of the first proprietors of Brookhaven Town, at Setauket in 1655 (then called Cromwell Bay), by a colony of imigrants from near Boston, Mass., the land was bought from the Setalcot Indians, & the sale confirmed by a release from Wyandance, Sachem, of Montauk. The family names of the leading settlers were Woodhull, Pierce, Smith, Satterley-ly, among others. He was a man of considerable wealth when he drowned in L. I. Sound with John Moger & Samuel Dayton, sometime between 1677 & 1679.

C-10 Sylvester Satterlee moved his wife & oldest child to Wash., Co., N.Y., between 1774 & 1777. They had a homestead 1 1/2 mi. S.E., of Greenwich, (then called Union Village). The next 8 of their 9 children were born on the old homestead, near the old Cambridge road. A log cabin church was erected 1/2 mi. west of the Satterlee farm in 1783. There was also a store here said to be the first in town; a saw mill nearby, owned by Benjamin Prosser & a wheelwright shop kept by Andrew Ferguson. They being in line of march of Baum's Hessian Expedition to Bennington, Vt., the Hessian's officers often bought milk & eggs here as they did on 13-Aug-1777.

From Easton Township, Washington Co., Sylvester Satterlee joined the 13th Regiment, Albany Co., Militia in the Revolution.

SECTION II

This manuscript carries out to the present generations, the families and all known descendants of only 2 sons of B-2 John Satterlee and his 10 children by 2 wives, Experience and Amey (Lamphere). The 2 sons are C-10 Sylvester & Bethany (Coon) Satterlee; & C-8 William & Eunice (Clark) Satterlee.

The order of birth of John's 10 children are not known at this time. I personally researched the Westerly Town Hall records 20-June-1961. Their earliest recordings were written on cloth or coarse fibre and pasted on heavy paper. There were very few birth records but I did find the marriage dates for 9 of B-2 John's 10 children.

Code Explanation

The different generations are indicated by exponents of the alphabet before the given name, thus; B-2 John Satterlee is of the 2nd generation, in America, from the Emigrant, A-2 Nicholas & Mary Satterlee, & is the 2nd child in his family.

b. = born
d. = died
M. = married
bapt. = baptized

If more than 1 date appears it indicates there has been conflicting information given to your historian by descendants of the family or through research into other genealogies and recordings by someone other than this compiler. G.S.M.

C-10 Sylvester Satterlee moved his wife & oldest child to Wash., Co., N.Y., between 1774 & 1777. They had a homestead 1 1/2 mi. S.E., of Greenwich, (then called Union Village). The next 8 of their 9 children were born on the old homestead, near the old Cambridge road. A log cabin church was erected 1/2 mi. west of the Satterlee farm in 1783. There was also a store here said to be the first in town; a saw mill nearby, owned by Benjamin Prosser & a wheelwright shop kept by Andrew Ferguson. They being in line of march of Baum's Hessian Expedition to Bennington, Vt., the Hessian's officers often bought milk & eggs here as they did on 13-Aug-1777.

From Easton Township, Washington Co., Sylvester Satterlee joined the 13th Regiment, Albany Co., Militia in the Revolution.

The story has come to the compiler (G.S.M.) that a William Satterly born 1632 (son of Thomas) near Exeter, England, became a clergyman of the Established Church & came to America before 1655; He was said to be one of the first proprietors of Brookhaven Town, at Setauket in 1655 (then called Cromwell Bay), by a colony of imigrants from near Boston, Mass., the land was bought from the Setalcot Indians, & the sale confirmed by a release from Wyandance, Sachem, of Montauk. The family names of the leading settlers were Woodhull, Pierce, Smith, Satterley-ly, among others. He was a man of considerable wealth when he drowned in L. I. Sound with John Moger & Samuel Dayton, sometime between 1677 & 1679.

Chris:

I don't remember if I sent you the names of the Satterlees buried in the little cemetary near us. Mom and I drove by and I mentioned it to her so we stopped. Here's the info from the four Satterlees buried there (along with a bunch of Allen and Allyns):

Lydia Satterlee, wife of Jonas, died July 19, 1851, 81 years old

Jonas Satterlee (with veteran marker) died March 8 1853, age 89 years old

Elisha Satterlee, died May 18, 1859, 80-some years old (couldn't read it all)

Polly Satterlee, wife of Elisha, died Sept. 29, 1816, age 71 years old.

That's it. I don't know if they're direct ancestors or merely some branch.

If you're interested in the Allen/Allyns, let me know and I can copy the gravestones for them too. The two are the only ones in the cemetary.

Subject: The Satterlee Family

Chris,

Thank you so much for the information that you sent to me on John Satterlee and his children. As I think I mentioned in my first reply to you, I only found out who Joseph's parents were in about the last 5 or 6 months. I had queries posted in the Washington Co., N.Y. GenWeb page, as well as the Warren Co., N.Y. GenWeb Page. It was only after I ordered a microfilm through the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints Family History Center of the book Supplement to Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Reprinted With Additional Corrections and Families, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt Fowler, 1988 that I found the connection.

Have you ever seen any of Goldie Satterlee Moffatt Fowler's books? She did 4 volumes. Since first viewing that microfilm, I found a used copy of Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Compiled and Typed by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt, 1972, Assisted by John L. Satterlee. Each volume apparently covers the early Satterlee family history, back to Sir Edmund de Soterley of Soterley manor, Knight, High Sheriff of Suffolk on 12 Sept. 1233. Volume 1 then covered the families of John and Amy Satterlee's son Sylvester Satterlee until about the 1970's (where she was able to take it that far), and John and Experience Satterlee's son William Satterlee. Volume 2 covered their son John Satterlee apparently, although, unfortunately, I've never seen it. I've seen some additions that she made to it, that went into my wife's ancestor Zina and Mary Ann (Bates) Satterlee (Joseph's son) and their daughter Alice and her husband Ambrose Hanchet Brooks and their children (this is my wife's line), but I haven't seen the details of you ancestor's family nor Joseph and Dorcas (Babcock) Satterlee's family.

Volume 3 or 4 got into Nicholas Satterlee's brother's families, William and Benedict Satterly. My wife descends in the following way:
Joseph Satterlee m. Dorcas Babcock
Their son Zina Satterlee m. Mary Ann Bates
Their dau. Alice J. Satterlee m. Ambrose Brooks
Their dau. Lola Mae Brooks m. Daniel Collins
Their son Bernard Collins m. Margaret Wallace
Their dau. Kay Collins (my mother-in-law) m. Leonard Pawlowski
Their dau., my wife, Susan Kay Pawlowski m. me, John Ladwig

I've attached the file of my information on the Satterlee family that incorporates Goldie Satterlee Moffatt's information as well as information that I've found in various spots. If you've never seen it, but you have some graphics capabilities (e.g. the "Paint" program that comes with Windows, or a scanner program), I have scanned the Satterlee Coat-Of-Arms, a map of where St. Ides is, where Nicholas Satterlee was born, and a photograph of a painting of the old Sotterley manor in England. These are in Bitmap format and can be viewed in most graphics programs. Let me know. The attached file was written in "Write" which is the simple word processor that comes with Windows, so you should be able to download it and view it in any word processing program. I also have photocopies of the original information that I found in Supplement to Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Reprinted With Additional Corrections and Families, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt Fowler, 1988.

If you would like a copy, just let me know, and let me know if your address remains the same as was in the mime program.

I also have information on the early generations of the Lamphere family if you'd like to see it. I would love to see your information on your Satterlee ancestors from Joseph's sister on down if you have it. Did they ever move in this direction from Herkimer County?

Well, thanks again for the information that you sent to me. I hope to hear from you soon. Best Regards!

Dear Madam:

Reference is made to your request for the Revolutionary War record of John Satterlee who died in 1829 or 1830.

The data which follow were obtained from papers on file in the pension claim, W. 18996, based upon the military service of John Satterley or Satterly.

He was born in Hopkinton, Rhode Island. The date of his birth and names of parents were not given.

While a resident of Hopkinton, Washington County, Rhode Island, he enlisted in the spring of 1776 as corporal in Captain Abel Tanner's company in Colonel George Thurston's Rhode Island regiment and on April 27, 1777, he re-enlisted as private in Captain McGregor's company in Colonel John Durkee's Connecticut regiment and served until April 27, 1780.

From Hopkinton, Rhode Island, he moved to Saratoga County, New York, and from there to Washington County, New York.

He died February 13, 1829.

This soldier married July 27, 1775, in Hopkinton, Rhode Island, Hannah Hyde.

She was allowed pension on her application executed April 14, 1842, at which time she was living in Canajoharie, Montgomery County, New York, aged eighty-nine years. In 1843 she was living at Fort Plain Montgomery County, New York.

(T2)6

They had children but the only name given was that of a son, Ira, who referred to his brothers.

In 1842 the soldier's sister, Amy Lamphier, was living at Hopkinton, Rhode Island, aged ninety years "and upwards" and she stated that she had two or three children at the time her brother married Hannah Wyde.

No charge is made for furnishing this information.

Very truly yours

On the 26th January 1843 personally appeared before the Subscriber a Justice of the peace in and for said County Ira Salterly who being duly Sworn doth depose and Swear that he is a son of John and Hannah Salterly. That his father the said John Salterly lived with him this deponent from the year 1816 until about the year 1824. That he was informed that he was entitled to a pension under the act of Congress passed 18th March 1818 but that he never applied for the benefit of that act on account of his not being able to procure the proof of his services without making a journey from his residence (then in Washington County State of New York) to the State of Rhode Island which he was unable to do without assistance and that he this deponent or any his brothers or others of his connexions were willing to furnish, therefore the said John Salterly lived and died without ever obtaining the benefit of the aforesaid acts of Congress as this deponent verily believes. This deponent further Sweareth that about one year before the death of his father he this deponent and another brother had made arrangements to assist their father to obtain his pension but he was taken sick and before an application was made his death occurred and nothing further was attempted until after the passage of the act of 4th July 1836. when Giles F. Yates was employed to procure a pension for his widow (the Mother of this deponent) the said Hannah Salterly. but he failed in procuring proof of service and the application was afterwards intrusted to her present agent Benjamin Cowell Esqr Providence Rhode Island - and further he says not

I Gershom Eglestin of North Stonington in the County of New London and State of Connecticut aged 82 years and upwards, being duly cautioned and sworn according to law Do depose and say that I used to know and was well acquainted with John Satterlee formerly of Hopkinton County of Washington and State of Rhode Island and also with his wife who when a girl was Hannah Hyde ——— They were connected to me by marriage and when they resided in Hopkinton I used within about one mile of me

I well recollect that in 1777 & 1778 or about those years, said John Satterlee was gone from home much & it was then said & commonly reputed & believed that he was in the army as a Soldier & I never doubted the reports from what he used to tell me. though I never saw him on duty when out in the army to my recollection - but I used frequently hear him tell stories about being out a soldiering and when he was and the offices he was under but I cannot now recollect the particulars though I recollect of him fully about being under Colo. Dearborn but have forgot what Captain he told me he served under.

We used to talk over our Campaigns in the war when we saw each other sometimes, and the last Conversation we had together on that subject was about 40 years ago at said Satterlee's Home in the State of New York and I was then also in that Country on a visit to see my friends & staid two nights with him.

From the best of my recollection Mr. Satterlee moved from Hopkinton grounds to Saratoga in state of N York about the year 1800 - At any rate it was about 3 years after he moved out there when I visited him.

Most of the information on the first generations in this paper through John Satterlee (b. 1745) is from the book Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Compiled and Typed by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt, 1972, Assisted by John L. Satterlee, and Supplement to Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Reprinted With Additional Corrections and Families, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt Fowler, 1988. I have added some additional information in the Nicholas Satterlee, John Satterlee (b. 1701/2) and John Satterlee (b. 1745) generations. That information was found in the New England Historical and Genealogical Registers, in the book Elder John Crandall of Rhode Island and His Descendants, by John Cortland Crandall, 1949, in the book The Record of Connecticut Men in the Military and Naval Service during the War of the Revolution 1775 - 1783, Edited by Henry P. Johnston, A.M., Printed by The Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company of Hartford, Conn., 1889, and in the Vital Records of Westerly, R.I. and Hopkinton, R.I. The information on Joseph Satterlee and the following generations was found in: the 1850, 1860, 1870, 1880, 1900, 1910 and 1920 U.S. Census Reports; the 1855, 1865 and 1875 New York State Census Reports; the settlement of the Estate of Zina Satterlee; Mary Ann (Bates) Satterlee's will; the History of Cattaraugus Co., New York, Pub. Philadelphia: L.H. Everts, 1879; cemetery headstones and records from the North Otto Cemetery and the East Otto Cemetery;

The Oldest History of the Satterlee Family

This most ancient family was seated at Soterley, in Waughford Hundred. They were Lords of Soterley, Stoke & Harthe in 1312 for which they were to find a horse for the King's Service for 40 days. They bore for arms: Gules a fesse ermine vert, three round buckles or the points upward.

Soterley in the Hundred of Waughford is undoubtedly the southern lea, or pasture land of Saxon times, so called in relation to some more important locality, probably Beccles, from which it is distant about 4½ miles. In the Domesday Book it is written "Soterlega" and was then a part of the estate of Hugh Abrincis, Earl of Chester.

From ancient records: "Soterlega Mundret holds it now (1070) & Burchard held it in the reign of Edward The Confessor (1042-66) 1½ carucates (a measure of land used for assessment purposes in early England = 180 acres) of land as a manor (estate administered as a unit); then 3 Bordars (tenants who hold a cottage and a few acres of land), now 16: & 2 serfs; then 2 ploughs on the demesne (an estate of which the owner is in possession), now 3 & 3 oxen; woodland for 100 swine; 4 acres for a meadow; then, as now, 1 rouncy (riding horse); 14 cows, 31 swine, 120 sheep, 30 goats, then as now; worth 53 shillings, 4 pence rent." Suckling in his History & Antiquities of The County of Suffolk, says the Manor of Sotterley was 1 league (3 miles) in length and 9 furlongs (1½ miles) breadth.

Philip Bocland

Early in the reign of Henry III (1216-1240) Philip Bocland, Lord of Shadingfield, obtained a license of free warren (a priviliege which one has in lands by Royal grant of hunting and taking wild beasts and birds of warren to the exclusion of any other person not entering by permission) in Sotterley with liberty of holding a market and a fair annually. A younger son of his took the name of the manor as a surname.

Sir Edmund de Soterley

Sir Edmund de Soterley of Soterley manor, Knight, was High Sheriff of Suffolk on 12 Sept. 1233. Respite for a fine from making himself a Knight for 3 years from Michaelmas, 26 Mar. 1256.

Sir Roger de Soterley

Sir Roger de Sotterley was the son and heir of Sir Edmund de Soterley. He was a Knight and witness to a deed on charter from Sir Nicholas de Cryol, Knight to Guy Ferrers of his Manor of Benhale, County of Suffolk in 1289, confirmed 14 June 1294. Sir Roger de Soterley and Sir John de Bellemont were appointed Commissioners of Array to assess and levy the King's Tenth on all personal property in the County of Suffolk 12 Nov. 1294. Sir Roger de Soterley, Alan de Goldyngham and Hugh de Muryant appointed to same post 4 Nov. 1301 and again 9 Feb. 1302. Sir Roger de Soterley also held the Manors of Argle, Stoke and Worrall in the County of Chester by the same tenure as he held Soterley, viz. to furnish a horse fully equipped for the Welsh Wars. He left 2 sons at his death in 1322.

* 1. Sir Edmund.

2. John. John was sued by Thomas Charles for entering his free warren at Tretenham and Little Hanby County Norfolk and taking away his fish and rabbits 10 Dec. 1301. He was on Subsidy Rolls for Suffolk County in 1327 and paid 11 shillings/1 d. Tax.

Sir Edmund de Soterley

Sir Edmund de Soterley was the son of Sir Roger de Soterley and a Knight. Pardon was granted to Edmund de Soterley for aquiring in fee without license from Sir Roger de Soterley, Knight, 2 tofts (sites for a dwelling house) and 5 carucates of land in Stoke and Harthe in Worrall, County Suffolk, held in chief with restitution of the same 2 Dec. 1311. Edmund de Soterley, Lord of the Villa of Soterley, was on the Subsidy Roll of Suffolk for 1327 and paid 6 s./7 d. tax. Commission of Oyer and Terminer on 4 Feb. 1328 to Robert Banyard, John Claver, Thomas de Reppes and Thomas de Birston on complaint of John de Howeworth that Edmund de Soterley, Reginald de Welyngton and Thomas Guage, William de Dellyrige and Clarice, his wife, Peter le Bone, Robert, son of John Le Fleur the elder, Maretia Parat, William Parat and others assaulted him at Howeworth, County Norfolk. By fine of 1 mark because he is so poor. On 1 Aug. 1332 Commission of Oyer and Terminer issued to Roger de Kordeston, Thomas Bacoun and

Thomas Reppes on complaint of Katherine, late the wife of Roger Fitz Auburn, that Edmund de Soterley, Knight, Edmund his son, Roger le Ros of Soterley and John Eliot of Soterley, did, at Soterley, brake in pieces a cart of his worth 20 s., killed 3 horses which were in it, carried away his goods and assaulted his servants; by fine of 1 mark. In the Red Book of fees in the County of Chester according to the Inquisition made by Alan le Zouche when Justice. Among others, Edmund de Soterley 1 fee 18 Mar. 1338. Sir Edmund was a Knight of the Shire 4, 5 and 6 Edward III (1331-1333). Wife's name was Joan. They had 2 sons:

1. Sir Roger, 1344. Had no issue.
* 2. Sir Edmund.

Sir Edmund de Soterley

Sir Edmund de Soterley the younger Knight was the son of Sir Edmund de Soterley and his wife Joan. License for 60 shillings paid to the King by the Master of the Hospital for Lepers of St. Mary Magdalen, Beccles, Suffolk for the alienation in Mortmain by Richard Walkfare, "Chevalier," Ralph de Hemenhale, "Chevalier," Thomas Savage, "Chavelier," John de Ulverton, "Chevalier," Edmund de Soterley and Alexander de Bouresgard. The Parson of the Church of Barsham to him and the brethern and sisters of the Hospital, 20 shillings of rent, issuing out of the Manors of Barsham and Herst 6 Feb. 1362. His wife's name was Margaret. He died in 1380. When the Sheriff made return that Edmund de Soterley held, at the time of his death, jointly with Margaret, his wife, the Manor of Soterley with the advowson (right of presenting a nominee to a vacant ecclesiastical benefice [fief], rectory or vicarage) of the Church, and that Roger de Soterleywas his son and heir. Margaret died in 1384, for in that year the Sheriff returned that Margaret, widow of Edmund de Soterley, Knight, held at the time of her death the Manor and advowson of the King as of the County of Chester by the service of one Knight's fee.

Roger de Soterley

Roger de Soterley was the son of Sir Edmund de Soterley and his wife Margaret. He held these estates by the same tenure and purchased of Sir Ralph Bigad, Knight, 11 s. 6 d. per annum rent, with the rent of 1,500 herrings in Gislingham and Soterle. He had 2 sons:

* 1. Sir Walter.
2. Edward. Edward was the father of:
   a. John de Soterle who claimed one messuage and 30 acres in Soterley in 1434, but it was clearly an usurpation as it was the younger branch. In the Court Books of 1434 we find this entry: "Johannes de Soterle aravit quandam divisionem inter et ad prejudicium Dui." In 1459 we find his only child:
      i. Katherine as wife of John Lisk of Baddingham.

Sir Walter de Soterley

Sir Walter de Soterley was the son of Roger de Soterley. He was a Knight and died in 1410, leaving 2 sons, both minors. "Commission in Oyer & Terminer to John Lancastere, William Waller & James Andrews to inquire into the report that divers wastes have been committed in the Manor of Sotterly in the County of Suffolk which was taken into the custody of Henry IV by the death of Walter de Soterle, tenant in chief, & by reason of the minority of Thomas, brother & heir of Edmund, 5 July 1416." He had sons:

1. Edmund. Died unmarried.
* 2. Thomas.

Thomas Sotterley

Thomas Sotterley was the son of Sir Walter de Soterley. His wife's name was Elizabeth, and she was probably the sister of Robert Baynard. In 1451 Sir Miles Stapleton, Edmund Clare of Castre, Esq., and Robert Baynard were feoffees of the Manor of Rollesby, in County Norfolk for Thomas Sotterley of Sotterley in Suffolk, Esq., which he had devised to his wife, Elizabeth, and heirs, she dying before him (abt. 1450), he now orders it to be sold and the money to be disposed of for the soul of the said Elizabeth, but Robert Baynard was to have the refusal of the purchase. Robert Baynard was undoubtedly his wife's brother as the Baynards had at one time owned Rollesby in Norfolk. Thomas Sotterley fought on the side of the Lancastrians and died in 1466, leaving:

* 1. Thomas.
2. Elizabeth, m. Sir Thomas Playter, to whom Sotterley was sold by order of Edward IV as Sir Thomas Playter had fought on the side of the Yorkists.

Sir Thomas Sotterley

Sir Thomas Sotterley of Sotterley, Knight, last Lord of the Manor fought on the side of Henry VI but after the disastrous battle of Tewkesbury in 1471 and the death of Henry VI in 1472 he was compelled to alienate "Sotterley" to his brother-in-law, Sir Thomas Playter to whom Sotterley had already been granted in 1469 by Edward IV. He removed to Norwich, County Norfolk. He married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Bedingfield of Oxburgh, County Norfolk. Both he and his wife died in 1477 and were buried in the Church of the Austin Friars at Norwich. Their monumental brasses are still to be seen there. They had 2 sons:

1. John of Chellesworth, County Suffolk who died unmarried in 1518.
2. William.

William Satterley

William Satterley first spelled the name as it is now spelled. He succeeded to the property of his brother John at Chellesworth but died later in the same year, 1518. He had one son and heir.

Nicholas Satterley

Nicholas Satterley of Chellesworth died in 1558. He had one son.

Solomon Satterley

Solomon Satterley of Chellesworth sold his interest in his estate and removed to London. He died while on a visit to Cheshire in 1599 and left 2 sons:

* 1. Julian.

2. Jasper, also called Gasper. He went to Devon with his older brother Julian and settled at Payhembury where he died in 1629. Will, Exeter.

Julian Satterley

Julian Satterley came to Devon after his father's death in 1599. He settled at Lustleigh, near Exeter, where he died in 1628.

Nicholas Satterley

Nicholas Satterley settled at Silferton where he died in 1644. He had 3 children:

* 1. William.

2. Thomas. Settled at Sherbrook where he died in 1652. He had son Thomas, Jr. who married 5 May 1656, Thomazine Macy.

3. Petronilla, m. 17 Dec. 1628, Alexander Risdon.

William Satterley

William Satterley was born at Silferton, near Exeter in County Devon in 1610. He matriculated at Pembroke College at age 19. He married his first wife, Elizabeth between 1629 and 1630. His one son by her was William Satterley or Satterly, who was born in 1632. William Satterley received his B.A. in 1633 and his M.A. in 1635. In 1640 he was appointed Vicar of St. Ide's Church in Ide (pronounced EED). He was arrested by Cromwell and imprisoned for his fealty to King Charles I but was released at the restoration of King Charles II in 1660. During the time of his banishment he had married his second wife in 1645 at Ide in Devon. Her name was also Elizabeth. He had at least 5 sons by his second wife and perhaps some daughters.

Children by his first wife, Elizabeth:

1. William, b. 1632; d. 1677/8; m. bef. 1660, Mary (Jenner) Weeks (dau. of John Jenner of Stamford or Stratford, Fairfield Co., Conn.). He came to this country after becoming a clergyman of the Established Church of England, before 1655, and had reportedly first located at Groton, Conn. He then moved to Long Island where he was an original proprietor of Setauket in Brookhaven Town (then called Cromwell Bay), Suffolk County, Long Island in 1658. The land was bought from the Setalcot Indians and the sale confirmed by a release from Wyandance, Sachem, of Montauk. The family names of the leading settlers were Woodhull, Pierce, Smith, Satterly, among others. William Satterlee was a man of considerable wealth when he drowned in Long Island Sound with John Moger and Samuel Dayton sometime between 1677 and 1679.

Children by his second wife, Elizabeth:

2. Richard, b. 1647. Matriculated Wadham College at Oxford and stayed in England where he had a family.

* 3. Nicholas, b. 1649.

4. William, b. 1651. Reportedly came to New England in 1675.

5. Giles, b. 1651. He matriculated in Exeter College at Oxford in England on 1 Mar. 1671 at the age of 16 and received his B.A. at St. Mary's Hall on 8 Mar. 1675. He was Vicar of Cornworthy, in Devon, England in 1682.

6. Benedict, b. 1657 at Ide, Devonshire, England; d. abt. 1689; m. Rebecca (Bemis) (Winter) Dymond on 2 Aug. 1682 (dau. of James Bemis; wid. of Tobias Winter and John Dymond). He came to this country in about 1682. They settled in New London, Conn. and later removed to Killingworth, Conn.

Nicholas Satterlee

Nicholas Satterlee was the son of Rev. William and Elizabeth Satterlee and was born in 1649 in Ide, County Devon, England. He was baptized on 12 June 1649 in St. Ide's Church, Devonshire, England. The first mention that I have found made of him in this country was in a "list of free inhabitants of the towne of westerle (i.e. Westerly, Rhode Island) may the 18 - 1669", which is when Westerly was incorporated (New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 12, p. 238). He was also listed as a free inhabitant of Westerly in 1680 (New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 15, p. 64). Westerly was the frontier town of the colony. Hopkinton, R.I. was later formed from land that was originally part of Westerly. The land was purchased from Chief Sosoa of Narragansett of the Misquamicutt tribe in 1661. The townships of Westerly, Hopkinton, Charleston and Richmond were a tract called by the Indians Misquamicutt. In 1669 when Westerly was incorporated thirty families were scattered over the ten by twenty mile tract. Massachusetts and Connecticut laid claim to the land as their own, and repeatedly did their utmost to possess the same. "The settlers hoped to live among the Red Men in peace. They soon found they had a stiff fight ahead, with white neighbors to keep the land they had bought and cleared ... Hardly had the settlers taken shelter in their dugouts and cabins when the long fight to oust them began" (Elder John Crandall of Rhode Island and His Descendants, by John Cortland Crandall, 1949). The lines between the states were constantly disputed until 1728 when the boundary question was settled by an agreement signed at Westerly. Through this agreement, R.I. got what it had claimed from the beginning.

Nicholas married Mary _____ before 1698 and remained in Westerly. I have found little else about Nicholas and Mary Satterlee other than the names of three of their children (although they may have had more than three children).

Children:

1. Penelope, b. 15 Nov. 1698.
* 2. John, b. 24 Feb. 1701/2.
3. Mary, b. 21 Oct. 1703.

John Satterlee

John Satterlee was born to Nicholas and Mary Satterlee in Westerly, Washington County, R.I. on 24 Feb. 1701/2. He was first married on 5 Jan. 1726/7 by Theodoty Rhodes, Justice, in Westerly, R.I. to Experience Lanphere/Lamphere. Experience was the daughter of John and Ruth (Ellis) Lamphere and was born on 8 Apr. 1709 in Westerly, R.I.. She died by 1748. John married second in Westerly on 4 Dec. 1748, Amey Lanphere/Lamphere. They were married by William Hern, Justice. Amey was the daughter of Richard and Mary/Mercy Lamphere and was said to be a cousin to Experience. She had been born on 22 June 1715 in Westerly. They remained and died in Westerly. John Satterlee died on 23 Aug. 1758 in that town. The birth dates of some of their children were estimated from the dates of their marriages.

Children:

1. Dorothy, b. 1727 in Westerly, R.I.; d. 1767 in Richmond, Washington County, R.I.; m. 1 May 1746 in Westerly, John L. Worden (b. 1724; d. 1779 in Charlestown, Washington Co., R.I.; m. 2.] 1 Jan. 1769, Susan Babcock; he was the son of Peter and Rebecca [Thurston] [Richmond] Worden). John and Dorothy Worden had 4 known children:
   a. John L., b. 1747 in Westerly, R.I.; d. Sept., 1802; m. 1778 in Westerly, Elizabeth Babcock.
   b. Nathan, b. 1749 in Westerly; m. 1778, Amy Waters.
   c. Joseph, b. 1752 in Westerly; d. 1819 in Rutland, Jefferson County, N.Y.; m. 1.) 1775, Electa Lamb; m. 2.) Anna Amy Lamb (b. 1756; d. 1836).
   d. Hannah, b. 26 May 1761 in Westerly; d. 7 July 1823 in Dummerston, Windham Co., Vermont; m. 11 Oct. 1782 in Dummerston, Maj. William Miller (b. 2 Oct. 1761 in Dummerston, VT.; d. 16 Apr. 1802 in Dummerston; son of Capt. Isaac and Sarah [Crosby] Miller of Dummerston, VT.).
2. Mary, b. abt. 1731 in Westerly; m. 21 Feb. 1753 in Westerly, James Babcock (b. 2 June 1733; d. 1781; fifth child of Daniel and Abigail [Thompson] Babcock). James Babcock served as a Lt. Col. in 1775 during the Revolutionary War in the Army of Observation of R.I. He was a Deputy to the General Assembly and represented Westerly in the General Assembly in 1777. James Babcock was a graduate of Yale College. They had 9 children:

a. James, b. 31 July 1753 in Westerly, R.I.; m. 26 Jan. 1777, Sarah Ross (dau. of John and Hannah [Saunders] Ross; b. 28 Aug. 1751).

b. Daniel, b. 25 Feb. 1755 in Westerly; m. 1 Mar. 1784, Hannah Burdick (dau. of Peter and Esther [Gavitt] Burdick).

c. Henry, b. 23 June 1757 in Westerly; m. 4 Aug. 1778 in Westerly, Prudence Gavitt (dau. of Hezekiah Gavitt).

d. Mary, b. 22 Sept. 1761.

e. Content, b. 19 Mar. 1764 in Westerly.

f. Barrodell, b. 19 Jan. 1766 in Westerly; m. 24 Mar. 1791 in Hopkinton, R.I., John Tanner (son of John and Mary Tanner; b. 27 Aug. 1766).

g. Lois, b. 20 May 1768 in Westerly, R.I.; m. 3 Mar. 1794, Stephen Tanner (son of John and Mary Tanner; b. 14 Dec. 1760).

h. Patience, b. 25 Dec. 1770 in Westerly.

i. Gideon, b. 30 Apr. 1773.

3. Eunice, b. abt. 1733; m. Rev. _____ Bunce. Little else is known about the Bunces other than he was a Methodist minister.

4. William, b. abt. 1736; m. 13 Sept. 1759 in Westerly by William Hern, Justice, Eunice Clarke (dau. of Amos Clarke). They removed to Farmington, Conn., which was called Bristol and Burlington prior to 1777. In 1780 they appear in Rensselaer Co., N.Y. "William fought in the Revolutionary War and was injured by a shot from an Indian, while hiding behind a hemlock log in the north of Vermont. His house with wife Eunice (Clarke) and eight children was a constant rendezvous for the soldiers of the Army" (Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt, 1972). They had 8 children:

a. Elizabeth, b. 1761 in Westerly, R.I.; d. 11 Mar. 1838; m. Paul Palmiter.

b. Eunice, m. 2 Apr. 1784, Lewis Burdick.

c. William, b. 3 Sept. 1766; d. 29 Mar. 1862 in Berlin, N.Y.; m. Mehetable Moon (b. 23 Jan. 1766; d. 22 May 1853 in Berlin, N.Y.; dau. of Job Moon of Petersburg, N.Y.). William Satterlee served as Elder of the Seventh-Day Baptist Churches in Rensselaer Co., N.Y. for 53 years, and preached until he was 85 years old and lived on the old homestead in Satterlee Hollow until he died, age 96 years. William and Mehetable's son, David Satterlee was b. 28 Apr. 1786 in Berlin, N.Y. and in Jan., 1805 m. Cynthia Saunders. David removed to Alfred, Allegany Co., N.Y. in 1813 and became the ancestor of the numerous Satterlee family members in Alfred. David "purchased 50 acres (in Alfred, N.Y.) from Nathan Greene on lot 7, and afterwards 50 acres adjoining, where he resided until about 1825, when he removed to Hornellsville where he died in 1877. Elder Amos Satterlee, a brother of David Satterlee, came about the same time, and was one of the earliest resident ministers of the gospel. The site of his home is now occupied by that of Arthur B. Greene on North Main St., Alfred (in 1896)" (History of Allegany County, N.Y., 1896). The Amos Satterlee mentioned in this article may have actually been David Satterlee's uncle Amos (b. 1778) since David did not have a brother Amos.

5. Prudence, b. 8 Oct. 1739; m. 4 Jan. 1764, Jeremiah Newberry (b. 14 Aug. 1743 in New London, Conn.; d. 1825 in Greenwich, Washington County, N.Y.; son of Nathaniel and Hannah [Lester] Newberry). Jeremiah served during the Revolutionary War, entering service in Suffield, Conn., Apr., 1777. He served as a private under Capt. John Harmon and John Buell, Col. Durkee and Grosvenor's Conn. Regiment. He was in the battles of Germantown, Mud Fort and Manmouth. He next served in a detachment under Capt. Betts, Lt. Col. Huntington and Col. Scannel, marching to Yorktown, Virginia and was in the storming of Redout at Yorktown. He was discharged in 1783. He applied for a pension from Greenwich, Washington Co., N.Y. in 1818 but was initially found to not be entitled to a pension since he had deserted on 10 Oct. 1778. Nevertheless, during the war, after Oct., 1778, General Washington proclaimed and offered a free pardon to all who had deserted but would return to duty. Jeremiah Newberry returned and reported to Col. Grosvenor. He was accepted and the rolls of Col. Grosvenor show his continuous service in the army from 1779-1783. After his return he went to Yorktown, VA., under Colonel Scannel in Capt. Bates Company, and Lt. Col. Ebenezer Huntington's Company. Jeremiah Newberry was eventually accepted to receive a pension, receiving pension # 43,022, and was issued $8.00 per month from Apr., 1818. They removed to Easton, Washington Co., N.Y. and had at least one child:

a. Jeremiah, b. 1764; m. 1789, Isabella Rogers.

6. Gideon, b. abt. 1741; m. 3 Jan. 1764 in Westerly, Ruth Bentley (b. abt. 1744 in Stonington, CT. or Westerly, R.I.; dau. of George and Ruth [Barber] Bentley). Ruth Bentley was a descendant of the Pilgrim George Soule. Gideon served as a corporal in the Havana Expedition of 1762 under Capt. Russel, Admiral Pocock and Lord Albermarle. His brother-in-law, Caleb Bentley, also served as a corporal in that company during the conflict. Gideon and Ruth Satterlee removed before 1782 to Easton, Washington Co., N.Y. Easton, Washington County was formed from Stillwater and Saratoga, Mar. 3, 1789, while a part of Albany Co., and so named from being the east town in the Saratoga Patent. It was annexed to Washington Co. Feb. 7, 1791. It lied on the east bank of the Hudson River. Easton Corners, Easton, South Easton and Crandall Corners are small villages in the township. Bangall and Beadleys Corners are neighborhoods. Parts of Union Village and Calesville, formerly "Arkansaw" are in the town (from Gazetteer of the State of New York, by Hough, 1873). Gideon Satterlee was listed as a member of Elder Nathan Tanner's church at Bottenkill (now Greenwich), Washington Co., N.Y. in 1782. Both prob. died in Easton, N.Y., Gideon in abt. 1805. They had 9 children:

a. Asa, b. abt. 1766 in Westerly; m. Mary Curtis.

b. James, b. abt. 1769; m. Nancy Rathbone.

c. Joseph, b. abt. 1772 in Westerly, R.I.; m. Hannah Bentley.

10. Sylvester, b. 15 June 1752 in Westerly, R.I.; d. Sylvester and Bethany Satterlee first settled in Westerly or Hopkinton. He "moved his wife and oldest child to Washington County, N.Y. between 1774 and 1777. They had a homestead 1½ miles southeast of Greenwich, then called Union Village (within the boundaries of Easton Township). The next 8 of their 9 children were born on the old homestead, near the old Cambridge road. A log cabin church was erected ½ mile west of the Satterlee farm in 1783. There was also a store here said to be the first in town; a saw mill nearby, owned by Benjamin Prosser and a wheelwright shop kept by Andrew Ferguson. They being in line of march of Baum's Hessian Expedition to Bennington, Vt., the Hessian officers often bought milk and eggs here as they did on 13 Aug. 1777" (Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt). From Easton Township, Washington Co., N.Y., Sylvester Satterlee joined as a private, the 13th Regiment, Albany Co., Militia during the Revolutionary War. "Sylvester Satterly of East Town" was listed in the will of Elisha Coon of "East Town, Washington Co." as brother-in-law and Executor of the will. It was dated 17 Sept. 1792 and probated 29 Nov. 1792. "Sylvester Satterly" was also mentioned as a Witness and an Executor in the will of Abel Coon of Easton. The will was not dated but was probated 24 Oct. 1809 in Washington Co., N.Y. They had 9 children:

a. Sylvester, Jr., b. 16 Oct. 1773 in Westerly, R.I.;d. 14 June 1864, East Hill, Nunda, N.Y.; m. 1798, Hepsibah/"Hepsy" Barton (b. 9 Nov. 1784 in Whitingham, Vermont; d. 21 Nov. 1863 in Nunda, N.Y.). Sylvester Satterlee, Jr. inherited the Satterlee homestead from his father, however, Horace Taber, Sr. probably took over the Satterlee farm from Sylvester, Jr. Sylvester Satterlee was listed as living in Easton, N.Y. in the 1800 U.S. Census, in Thurman, Washington Co., N.Y. in the 1810 U.S. Census, in Easton in the 1830 U.S. Census, and in Nunda, Allegany Co. (now Livingston Co.), N.Y. in the 1840 and 1850 U.S. Census Reports. Sylvester and Hepsibah were listed as members of the Bottenkill (now Greenwich) Church in Washington Co. in 1816 and again in 1836. They must have removed to Nunda between 1836 and 1840. He was a farmer.

They were 22 days reaching Michigan, where they remained in Jackson County until 1845, when most of the family moved to Montcalm Co. The boys and their father owned about 600 acres of government land section #7 being the original homestead. Ethan's land consisted of 480 acres, 2 miles west of the center of Greenville, near the Kent County line"* (Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt).

John Satterlee

John Satterlee was the son of John and Experience (Lamphere) Satterlee and was born in 1745 in Westerly, R.I. He was married on 27 July 1775 by John Burdick in Hopkinton, R.I. to Hannah Hyde. Hannah was the daughter of John and Hannah Sarah (Stewart) Hyde and was born in 1752. They probably first settled in Hopkinton, R.I. but may have removed to Plainfield, Conn. During the Revolutionary War, "John Satterlee served as a (private and then corporal) in Capt. Abel Tanner's Company and in Capt. George Thurston's Connecticut Regiment. He also fought (in the Continental Army) under Capt. McGregor and was in the Revolution from beginning to end, probably near Plainfield, Conn" (Supplement to Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Reprinted With Additional Corrections and Families, by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt Fowler, 1988). I have found no record of John's service in Capt. Abel Tanner's Company nor in Capt. George Thurston's Conn. Regt.

In the book The Record of Connecticut Men in the Military and Naval Service during the War of the Revolution 1775 - 1783, Edited by Henry P. Johnston, A.M., Printed by The Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company of Hartford, Conn., 1889, John Satterlee is listed as a private in Capt. John McGregier's Company of the Fourth Regiment "Connecticut Line." He enlisted on 28 Apr. 1777 for a 3 year term and was discharged on 28 Apr. 1780. He signed on from Plainfield, Conn. The book also offers the following:

For the Fourth Regiment "Connecticut Line" Formation 1777 - 1781:

"Regiment raised for the new 'Continental Line' of '77, to continue through the war. Recruited mainly in Windham and New London Counties. Went into camp at Peekskill in spring of '77, and in Sept. ordered to Washington's army in Penn.; marched in Conn. Brigade under Gen. McDougall. Engaged in Battle of Germantown (PA.), Oct. 4 '77, on left flank of the army and suffered some loss. Assigned later to Varnum's Brigade a detachment of the regiment continued the brave defence of Ft. Mifflin, on the Delaware, Nov. 12-16, and lost Capt. (Stephen) Brown, and several men killed and wounded.

Wintered at Valley Forge '77-'78, and on June 28 following engaged closely at Battle of Monmouth, Col. Durkee then commanding the Brigade. Lieut. Col. (Giles) Russell in command at close of the action. Regt. encamped with main army at White Plains until ordered into winter quarters at Redding, '78-'79; assigned to 1st Conn. Brigade under (Maj. Gen. Samuel Holden) Parsons. In campaign of '79, engaged in movements on east side of the Hudson under Heath as wing commander; its Light Co. under Capt. Phelps detached to Meigs' Light Regt. and took part in the storming of Stony Point, July 15, '79. Wintered at Morristown '79-'80 and with the Conn. division stationed on the outposts. In '80 with main army on both sides of the Hudson. Wintered '80-'81 in camp, 'Connecticut Village,' opposite West Point near the Robinson House. Consolidated for new formation, '81-'83."

In another book John Satterlee is listed as serving as a Private in the 5th New York Regiment. In Supplement to Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Reprinted With Additional Corrections and Families, Goldie Satterlee Moffatt Fowler stated that at the close of the Revolutionary War, John Satterlee removed his family to Albany County (now Washington County), N.Y., where all but 2 of their children were born. But perhaps he removed to Albany Co., N.Y. before the War's end and from there served in the 5th N.Y. Regt. In addition, it may have been through the N.Y. Regt. that John Satterlee served under Capt. Abel Tanner and in Capt. George Thurston's Regiment.

In 1833 his widow was receiving a pension. This award is recorded in a Pension Index as pension number W 18996. This is confirmed in the D.A.R. Patriot Index where it lists the following: "Satterlee John b 1745 d 2-13-1829 m Hannah Hyde Cpl Ct W« (W« = widow pensioned)."

Most of John Satterlee's siblings removed to Washington County, N.Y by 1783. There was a John Satterlee located in the town of Argyle, Washington Co., N.Y. according to the 1800 U.S. Census. He was listed as living in Bolton, Washington Co. (now Warren County), N.Y. in the 1810 U.S. Census. John Satterlee died on 13 Feb. 1829 in Jessups Landing, Saratoga County, N.Y. This hamlet was in the Township of Corinth. Hannah (Hyde) Satterlee died in 1841 in Canajoharie, Montgomery County, N.Y.

Joseph Satterlee

Joseph Satterlee was the son of John and Hannah (Hyde) Satterlee and was born in Aug., 1789 in Washington Co., N.Y. Joseph served during the War of 1812, likely while still living in Washington/Warren Co. As a result of his experiences in that conflict, he was nicknamed "Fightin' Joe" by the family. Joseph married in about 1814, Dorcas Babcock. Dorcas had been born on 5 Dec. 1798. She indicated in the 1855 and 1875 New York State Census that she was born in Washington Co., N.Y. She indicated in the 1865 State Census that she was born in King's County (i.e. Brooklyn), N.Y. If the latter is accurate, her family must have moved almost immediately to Washington Co. after her birth. Dorcas' parentage is uncertain, although she may have been the daughter of Caleb Babcock who was listed in Easton, Washington Co., N.Y. in the 1790, 1800 and 1810 U.S. Census.

It's likely that Joseph and Dorcas Satterlee initially lived in Bolton, Washington Co. (now Warren Co.), N.Y. prior to their removal by 1820 to Pike, Allegany Co. (now Wyoming Co.), N.Y. Bolton was the town in which his parents lived in 1810. Dorcas was listed in the records of the Baptist Church of Castile, Wyoming Co., N.Y. as being dismissed from that church in 1827 to the church in Pike, N.Y. She was listed as "Dorcas Satterly from Bolton." In about 1832, Joseph and Dorcas Satterlee removed again to the town of Otto, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y. The area of that town that they lived in became part of the town of East Otto, N.Y. on 30 Nov. 1854. They lived in a log home on the road that today is called Traffic Street in East Otto. Joseph is listed in an Index of Awards for Soldiers of the War of 1812, New York, which was published by the Adjutant General's Office. He received award No. 78, was listed as living in Otto, Cattaraugus County, N.Y. and received an award of $27. Joseph Satterlee was a farmer while in this location and built a plank home before his death. He died there on 15 Dec. 1863 at the age of 74 years and 4 months. He was buried in the North Otto Cemetery which is located in the town of Otto.

Dorcas Satterlee remained in the family homestead, and during her remaining years various family members moved in and out of the house with her. She died there on 27 July 1886 at the age of 87 years, 7 months and 22 days. She was buried in the cemetery in East Otto, where her youngest son was also later buried. Dorcas had indicated in the 1865 N.Y. State Census that she'd had 10 children. Not all of these have been identified.

Children:

1. Chancey A., b. abt. 1815; m. Sarah A. [Whitford?] (b. abt. 1826 in N.Y. State). They removed to Penn in abt. 1850 but returned to East Otto in abt. 1859. They apparently left the area again after 1862, althought it's not known where to. Chancey was a farmer. They had at least 5 children:
    a. Stephen A., b. abt. 1849 in N.Y. State.

b. Joseph S., b. abt. 1851 in Penn.

Alonzo was a farmer and served during the Civil War as a private in the 9th Regt., N.Y. Vol. Cavalry. He was a farmer and worked on his father's farm until he left Cattaraugus Co., N.Y. soon after 1850. May have been the Andrew J. Satterlee listed in the History of Allegany County, N.Y. (1896). That Andrew was listed as serving in the Civil War in Co. H of the 1st N.Y. Dragoons. He enlisted in Aug., 1862. Andrew and Jane lived in Sherman, Chautauqua County, N.Y. before removing to Waterford, Pennsylvania where Andrew worked as a carpenter. Andrew Satterlee had one daughter from his first marriage (name unknown). He and Jane (Damon) Satterlee had one child:
a. Byron Alpheus, b. in Sherman, N.Y.; d. in Corry, Penn.; m. (name unknown). They had one son (Monroe Laurance Satterlee; m. Kathy E. Ward) and five daughters.

5. Possibly Olive Ann, b. 1827; d. 1900 in Otto; bur. in North Otto Cemetery; m. abt. 1847 Albert Hemstreet (b. 1818 in Montgomery Co., N.Y.; d. 1900 in Otto, N.Y.; bur. in North Otto Cemetery). They settled in Otto, N.Y. on the west side of North Otto Road, about a half mile north of present day County Highway 56. Albert was a farmer. They had 1 daughter and 3 sons:

Bates (b. 25 July 1830 in Otto, N.Y.; son of Asa and Sally [Milks] Bates]). Charles was a farmer and they settled in Otto, N.Y. He may have remarried after Juliette's death to Clara Dean. They had one daughter:

a. Emma F., b. abt. 1854.

7. Maryette, (prob. twin) b. abt. 1830 in Pike, N.Y.; m. 4 Mar. 1850, Nelson L. Bates (b. 27 May 1828 in Otto, N.Y.; d. 16 Feb. 1866; bur. in North Otto Cemetery; son of Asa and Sally [Milks] Bates]). Nelson was a farmer and a drover and they lived in East Otto, N.Y. on Lot 48 off of Traffic Street. Maryette apparently did not remarry as she was listed as a widow and living with her mother in the 1880 U.S. Census. It's unknown what became of her after that. They had one daughter:

a. Dorcas Viola, b. 1852.

8. Oel D., b. Dec., 1833 in Otto/East Otto, N.Y.; d. 1907 in East Otto; bur. in East Otto Cemetery next to his mother; m. 1.) abt. 1860, Ellen A. K of the 9th Regiment, N.Y. Volunteer Cavalry. He mustered on 2 Sept. 1864 and was appointed Company blacksmith on 1 Jan. 1865. He was discharged on 1 June 1865 at Winchester, VA. Oel and Ellen Satterlee settled in East Otto and Oel served as the Town Clerk of that town in 1877-78. After Ellen's death, Oel boarded in the Allman Gooderick home in East Otto. Mr. Gooderick was also a blacksmith. Oel and Alice Satterlee remained in East Otto. Oel and Ellen (Babcock) Satterlee had 2 daughters:

a. May Della, b. 1862; d. 1875; bur. in East Otto Cemetery with her parents.

b. Anna Crystal, b. 1872. After Ellen (Babcock) Satterlee's death, their daughter, Anna was adopted by Ellen's sister and her husband, Adelia (Babcock) and Allen A. Bates. Allen and Adelia Bates were living on Franklin Street in Springville, Erie Co., N.Y. at the time. Anna eventually married _____ Prill and removed to Scio, Oregon.

Zina Satterlee

Zina Satterlee was born to Joseph and Dorcas (Babcock) Satterlee in Pike, Wyoming Co., N.Y. on 5 Jan. 1824. He married on 16 Dec. 1845 in Otto, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y., Maryanna (Mary Ann) Bates. Mary Ann was the daughter of Asa and Sally (Milks) Bates and had been born on 1 June 1826 in Otto, N.Y. She was also the sister of Nelson L. Bates, Charles W. Bates and Roxcena (Bates) Babcock. Mary Ann's parents probably married in Washington or Warren County, N.Y. and removed to western N.Y. by 1825. Sally (Milks) Bates' father, Lemuel Milks, was listed in the 1810 U.S. Census as living in Bolton, Washington Co. (now Warren Co.), N.Y., the same town that Joseph and Dorcas (Babcock) Satterlee first settled in. These families probably knew each other before removing to western New York.

Zina and Mary Ann Satterlee settled in East Otto, N.Y. on Lot 55 on Traffic Street, right next door to Joseph and Dorcas Satterlee. They may have received the land as a wedding present from his parents. Zina farmed the land and built a plank home on the site. His real estate was valued at $25. in 1855.

Zina Satterlee served during the Civil War as a private in Company A of the 9th Regiment, N.Y. Volunteer Cavalry. He enlisted on 2 Sept. 1864 and was to serve for one year. Capt. Benjamin F. Chamberlain and First Lieut. Albert C. Robertson were the officers of the company when Zina enlisted. Albert C. Robertson was commissioned as the company Captain on 6 Dec. 1864 and Mortimer Summey replaced him as First Lieut. on 13 Dec. 1864. Zina never finished his year of service since he died of disease on 26 Feb. 1865 at a U.S. Armory Hospital at Harpers Ferry, VA. (now W. VA.). He died at the age of 41 years, 1 month and 21 days, and left a widow and 4 children behind at home.

The book, History of the Ninth Regiment, New York Volunteer Cavalry, War of 1861 to 1865 described some of the regiment's activities during Zina's final days: "Feb. 6 (1865). The 9th N.Y. moved into the camp vacated by the 20th Pa. While in camp near Lovettsville a number of men were sick and several died. Feb. 22. A national salute was fired at noon at Harper's Ferry for the capture of Charleston and Wilmington and the retaking of Fort Sumter as well as for the celebration of Washington's birthday ... Feb. 24. The 2d brigade, now under command of Col. Fitzhugh left camp at Lovettsville and marched through Hillsboro (Virginia) to the Potomac opposite Sandy Hook. Feb. 25. Reveille at 3 a.m., moved at 5 a.m. Marched to near Berryville (VA.) and went into camp in a cold storm of sleet. The men made beds of pine brush from which they had thawed the frozen sleet over their camp fires. The wagon train moved with the regiment as far as Bolivar Heights from which place a number of unserviceable horses were sent back. Feb. 26. Marched to Winchester (Va.) and camped a little way south east of the town and joined the division. Drew rations, forage and ammunition for a long march including 15 days of coffee, sugar, and salt."

Zina had probably become ill at the camp near Lovettsville toward the beginning of the month. It was the closest point mentioned to Harpers Ferry. He died less than 2 months before the war's end. From the recorded settlement of his estate, some other facts were learned. Mary Ann Satterlee filed the petition for Zina's estate on 7 Mar. 1866. Mary Ann was noted as the administratrix of his estate. A receipt is present which was made out to "Miss Maryann Satturlee" for $47. and 50 cents, received by C.W. Bates in March 1865 "for traveling fees and incidental Expenses for the Burial of her Husband." Another receipt was made out for a payment of $20. to a Dr. Henry H. Elcthison of Harper's Ferry, Va. for embalming "the Body of Zena Saterlee." It is dated March 8, 1865 and was given to Mr. Charles W. Bates. Another receipt was made out to "Chas. W. Bates (of) Chataragus Sta. N.Y." for $30. for the transportation of the corpse of Zina Satterlee. It was made out by the Adams Express Company, Great Eastern, Wester, and Southern Express Forwarders, (of) Harper's Ferry, Va. Mary Ann's brother, Charles, obviously travelled to Harpers Ferry for Mary Ann to bring Zina's body back to Cattaraugus Co. Another receipt was made out in Gowanda on 15 Sept. 1865 by Norman Kelley to verify the payment of $32. "in full for Sitt of grave stones for Zina Satterlee deceased." It was made out to Mary Ann Satterlee. Zina was buried in the North Otto Cemetery, within a stone's throw of his father's grave. The names of Albert Hemstreet, Charles W. Bates, Alonzo Wood and Darius Babcock are seen in numerous places in the records of his estate as assisting Mary Ann Satterlee in the payment of Zina's debts and her accounts. A final entry worth noting is the summary of Zina's assets as compared against his and Mary Ann's debts. It demonstrates how little Mary Ann and her children were left with and how difficult it must have been for her to make ends meet:

"Total amount of assets which have come into the hands of said administratrix is: $477.

The total amount of expenses and debts of said estate pend by the administratrix is: $453.87

The commissions of the admix are: $23.13.

On 2 Aug. 1883 at 10 a.m. Mary Ann Satterlee finally settled the last of Zina's accounts. At the end of this paper can be found the Inventory of Zina's Estate in its entirety to show how few belongings he and his family had.

Mary Ann remained in the family home until her death. Her oldest son, David, stayed in the house with his mother, as did his wife and children, and he continued to farm the land and provide for Mary Ann. Mary Ann was listed in the Cattaraugus Co. 1883 Pension List for Civil War Veterans and their families. It lists her No. of Certificate as 111,109; the cause of her being the pensioner as "widow"; and the amount received as $8.00/month. Mary Ann (Bates) Satterlee's will was dated 9 Nov. 1886 and in part read:

To my daughter Sarah L. Hawkins one rocking chair, my set of cane seated chairs, and one hundred and fifty dollars. Said rocking chair is cane seated. Second I give and bequeath to my son, Emer D. Satterlee, one Feather Bed and one hundred and fifty dollars. Third I give and bequeath to my daughter Alice J. Brooks my Bureau, my best bed and what belongs with it and one hundred and fifty dollars. Fourth I give and bequeath to my daughter Sarah L. Hawkins and Alice J. Brooks all my wearing apparel to be divided equally between them. Fifth I give and bequeath to my son, David B. ADDENDUM

An Article About a Satterlee Family Association Reunion
Held Friday, 30 June 1916 in East Otto, N.Y.
Taken from Volume 1, Satterlee-ley-ly and Allied Families Genealogies, Compiled and Typed by Goldie Satterlee Moffatt, 1972,

Friday, 30-June-1916: A SATTERLEE REUNION was held in East Otto, N.Y., at the home of Mr. Emer D. Satterlee's in the character of a SATTERLEE CLAN GATHERING.

About 100 guests assembled from different parts of the country, and after partaking of a bountiful dinner, a toast was given to the Red Red Rose, conducted by Mr. John C. Satterlee of Chicago; in whose remarks the history of the Red Rose, the language it speaks, and the record of how it became the choice of the SATTERLEE family was given. At the close of this interesting feature, a short business session was held; then all adjoined to the Methodist Church, where Mr. Satterlee gave a most interesting history of the SATTERLEE family. He brought with him a large chart on which each generation of the SATTERLEEs were represented from the time they first came to this country in 1653 down to the present time. This represented the work of from 25 to 30 years. In his remarks he read a historical poem which he had composed, giving in rhyme, the history of the clan of SATTERLEEs as far back as 900 A.D.

Mr. Satterlee said in the course of his remarks that in all his extensive research he had found no case of a Satterlee disgracing the name by betraying his country or in any way violating the laws of the land. We, who had the privilege of listening to this address realized it was an event of a life time, and we returned to our homes fully persuaded that our reunion was a grand success.

A detailed summary of the event is described as a gathering of the sons and daughters of The Red Red Rose. Sir Edmund de Saterle, Knight Bannerette of England in the year of 1235. The family participated in the War of the Roses on the side of the Red Rose Lancastrians; in consequence of which the Ancestral home, SOTTERLEY MANOR, in Suffolk, England, was sequestered by Edward IV, and the family exiled in 1477, and the old Hall was destroyed by fire in 1744.

The aforesaid gathering was participated in by descendants of all lines of American descent, the formal opening of the get-together being preceded by a gracious repast, being served both inside and out, of Mr. Emer D. Satterlee's spacious home and upon the lawn. All the participants were adorned with the traditional RED ROSE. Divine Grace was invoked by Rev. J. R. Babcock, and he officiated at the opening of the formal exercises with Susie M. Shattuck as secretary. A poem on the Red Rose was read by Mrs. Jonathan S. Wood of Cattaraugus, followed by another poem by Mrs. Alice Newberry Link of Troy, N.Y. Then Mr. John C. Satterlee read his paper on the Red Rose's historic past, and its inspired present, and explained its significance.

Then followed a report of the outgoing officials and the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Emer D. Satterlee; Vice-President, O. E. Wood; secretary, Mrs. Zena Satterlee; Treasurer, Jonathan S. Wood.

The following were appointed a committee on resolutions; James M. Satterlee, Lansing Mich.; Mrs. Alice Newberry Link, of Troy, N.Y.; George A. Satterlee, Chicago; Mrs. Ida S. Warner, Pittsford, N.Y.; Hugh Satterlee, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Edgar F. Fuller, Weston Mills, N.Y.; Edward Satterlee, Sapertown, Pa.
